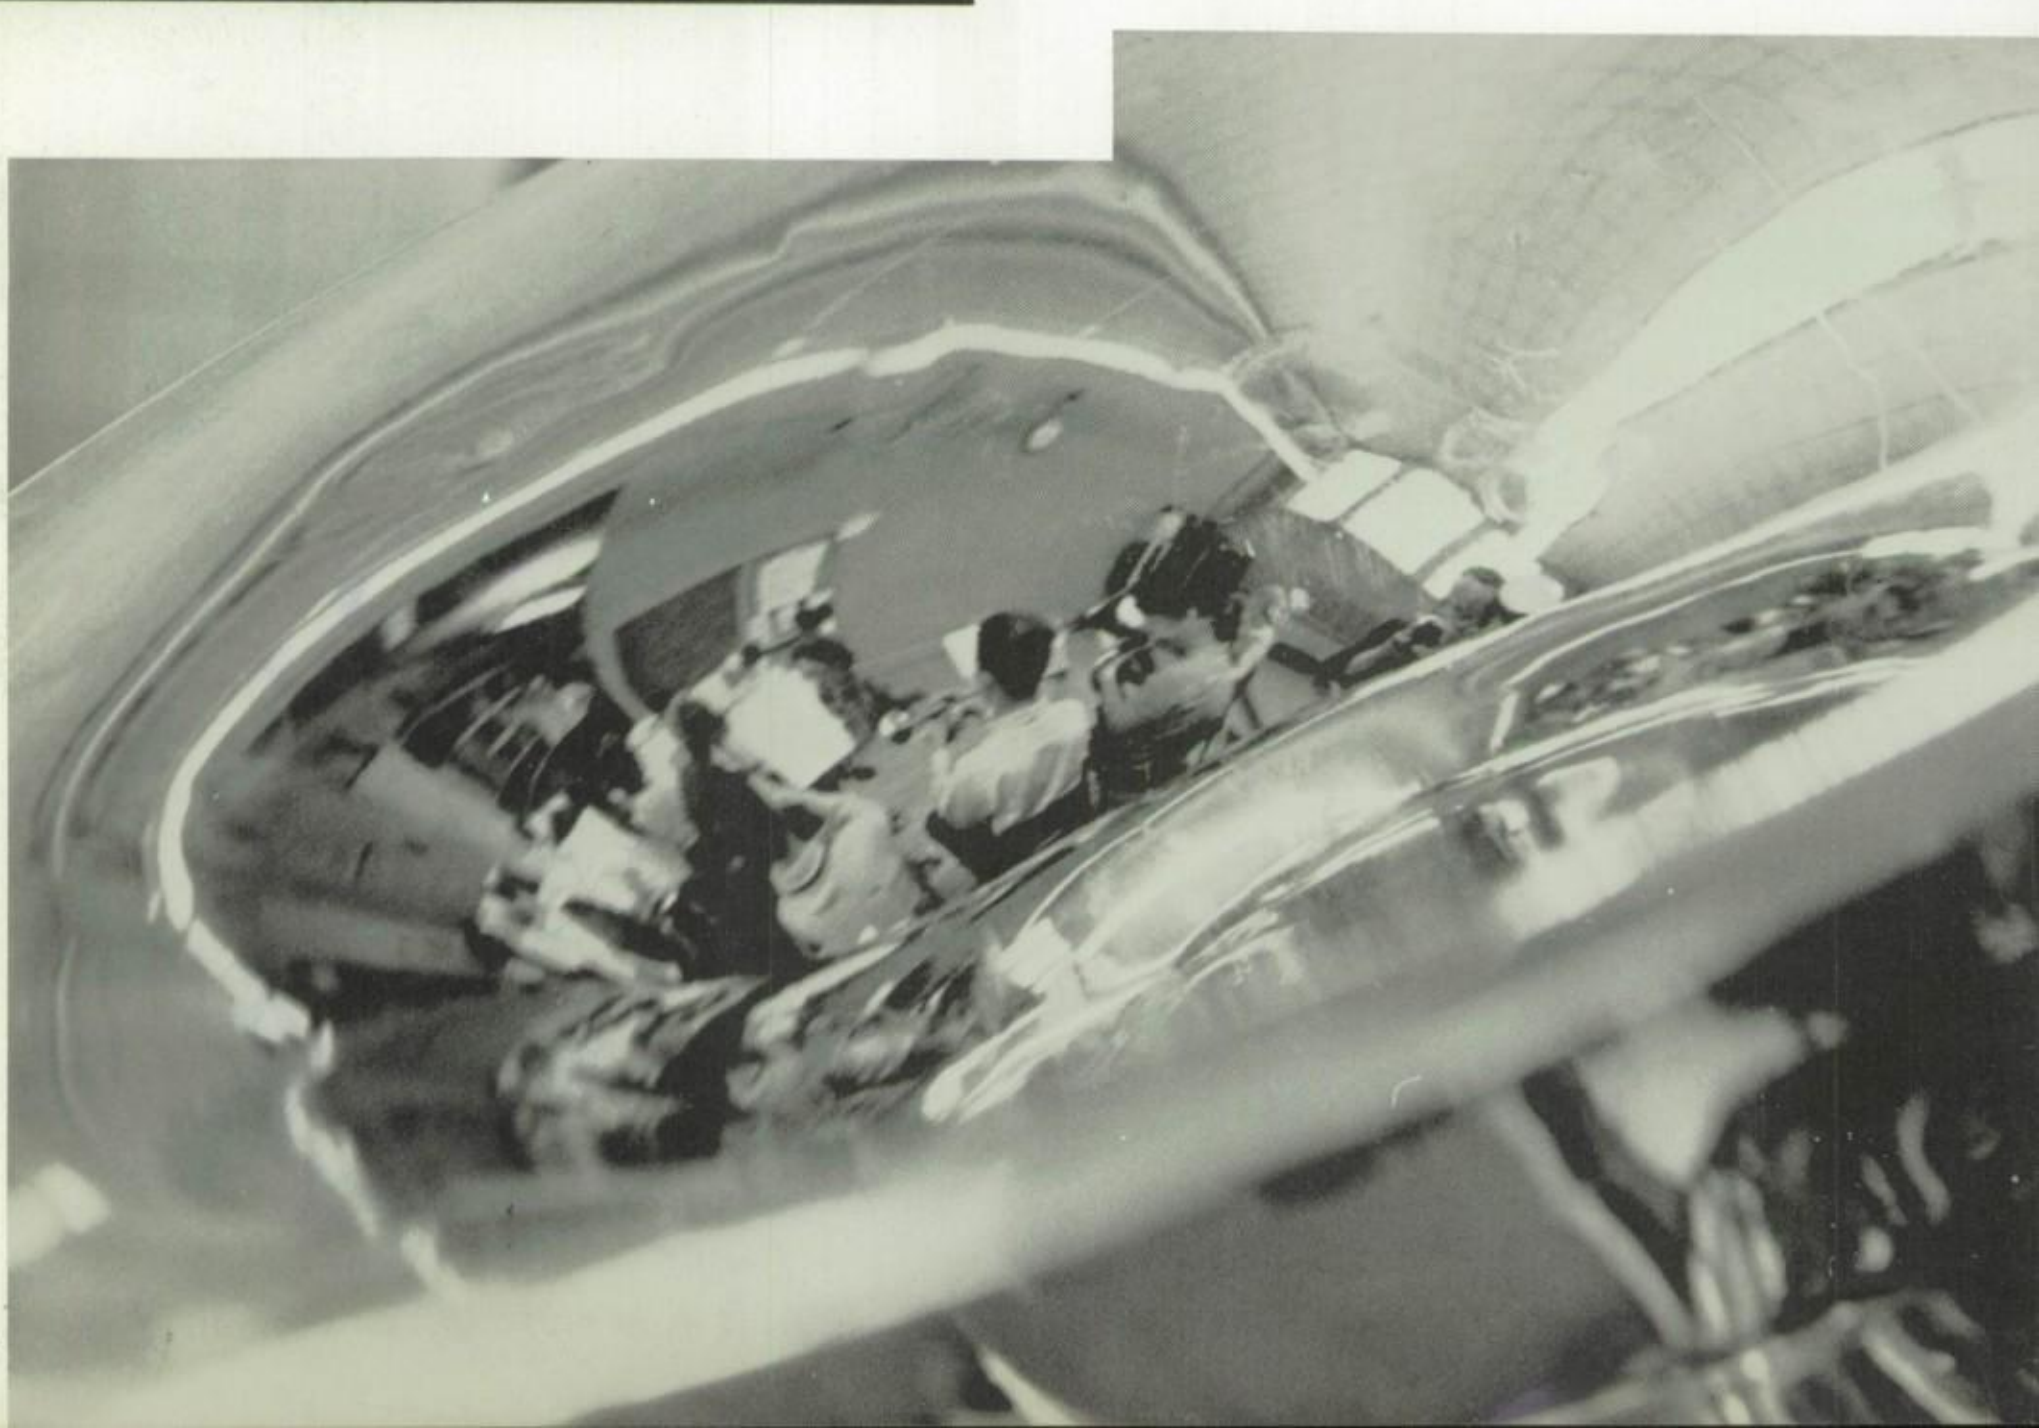
Now we see in part . . .



In an institution as large as North High School, there is a kaleidoscope of tastes and interests represented by its many students. This is reflected in the diverse social and educational offering which is demanded of North's faculty to prepare each student for his future.

Each year, North has grown in response to its obligations to an ever-increasing number of students. It has become so big that the average student is not aware of many of the activities going on around him, other than the few that actually involve him. His concept of what North really is, is limited to the experiences which he takes with him at the end of three years. But North is more than just these individual experiences. It's much more than the many faces it shows in its classrooms, clubs and sports. Like the pieces of glass at the bottom of a kaleidoscope, which in themselves are insignificant, but together form a unique pattern—so the many parts of North High School must be viewed together to see fully what it is.

To show what North really is, your 1965 Polaris presents . . .

North High School

than the sum of its parts.

. . . our faculty

Of North's many teachers, we see but a few and of these few, we get just a glimpse.

Administrators Shape the Whole

Mr. Chester Johnson (seated) and Mr. Charles Nichols and Mr. Glen Sonnenberg (standing) consider one of the many problems that besets the administration of North daily.

Was there anyone who truly saw North, the whole of North? Perhaps only Mr. Chester Johnson as principal, and his assistants, Mr. Glen Sonenberg and Mr. Charles Nichols, could make such a claim. It is the duty of these men to coordinate Polar life, to fit the parts together into one, smooth-running whole.

A principal is a busy man, and North's is no exception. The responsibilities of his job often draw him from behind closed office doors into a hectic schedule of meetings and conferences all over the city. He devotes all his time and effort to maintaining an efficiently run school, for the major difficulties of administration are his to solve.

It is through Mr. Johnson's hand that North operates and to him that Polars owe their thanks and cooperation.

Mr. Sonnenberg jots down the details of his busy schedule.

Mr. Sonnenberg and Mr. Nichols, as assistants to Mr Johnson, have slightly different responsibilities. They deal more directly with the students and their activities and sometimes find the unpleasant task of discipline a necessity. Mr. Sonnenberg is concerned mainly with seniors, Mr. Nichols with sophomores and juniors. Both fill busy days with their best efforts to coordinate diversified Polar life.

Kathy Tripp knows Mr. Johnson is always ready to lend an understanding ear.

Mr. Nichols looks up from the ever-present paper work to help a troubled Polar.

MRS. RUTH HEDLUND: (not pictured) English, Student Council Advisor, Senior Banquet.

Few facets of American life hold more significance than the ability to understand, as well as to use, the English language. Often simply taken for granted, the ability to communicate ideas, and to communicate them well, is the basis of society. Without a workable language system, a community has no real foundation.

Thus, the English department is a major part of the whole of education, for it is from this one that the rest stem.

As a sophomore, a student is exposed primarily to the appreciation of literary types. He may, as a junior, elect to take newswriting which includes the fundamentals of journalism in addition to the regular junior curriculum of American literature. World and English literature are offered to the senior; abler students may select the faster paced college-bound course.

"What do you mean, this class is an illusion?"

Recognizing Our Part In the Expanding World

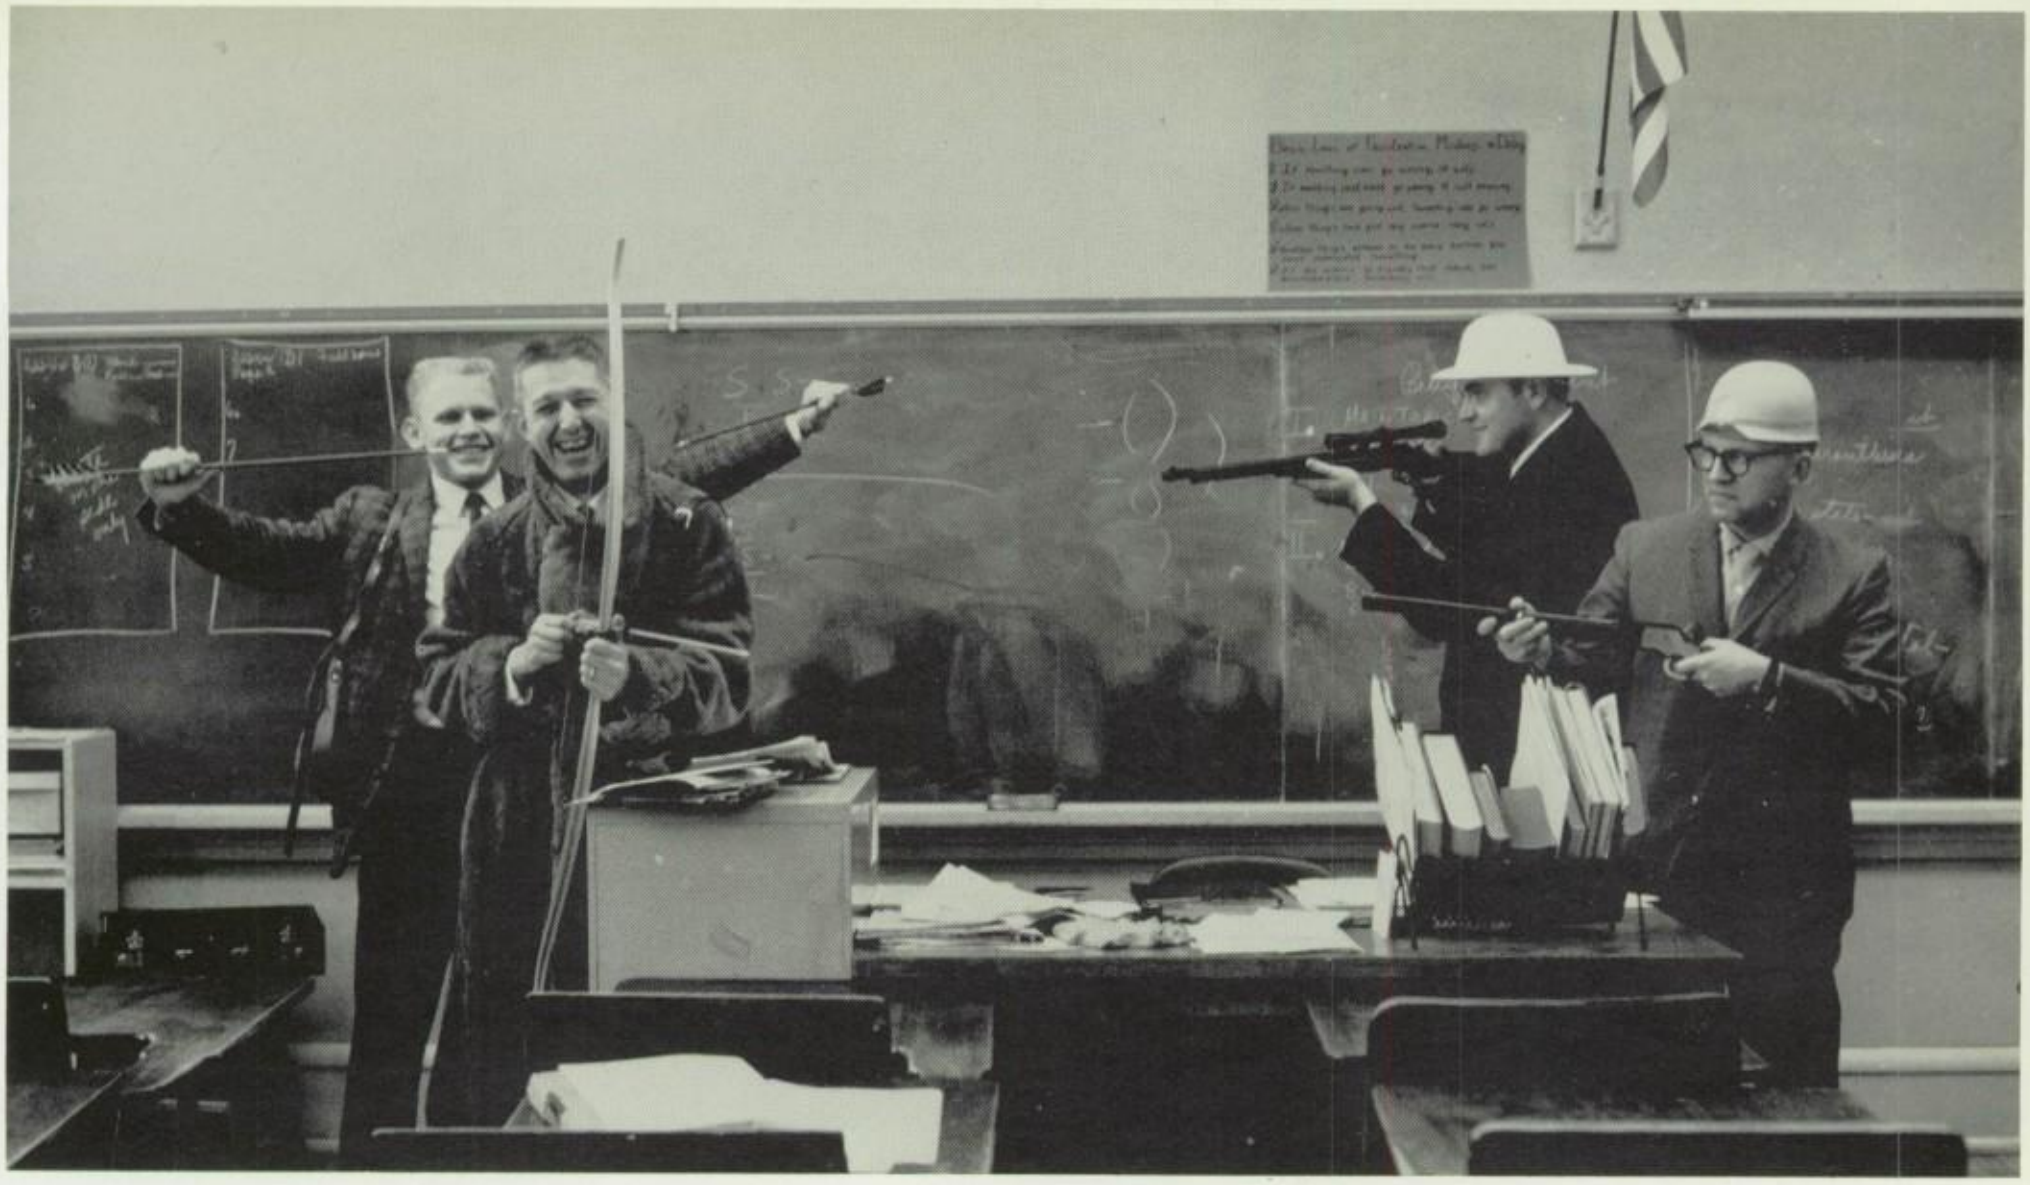
In three years of social studies, North students were given the opportunity to see the world of the past, the present, and possibly that of the future.

As a sophomore, a Polar was taught the history of the world. As a result he gained the knowledge of human and civilized progression in many parts of the world. American history was the main topic as a junior. He learned of the various people and events that made this country one of the strongest in the world today.

To get a better understanding of the world's social and political changes, each Polar, as a senior, had a course in modern problems. In the course he had units on psychology, sociology, economics, political science and current events.

"You aren't seriously going to vote for HIM, are you?"
EDANA CONNORS: Modern Problems, Speech, National Forensic League.
STANLEY VOGEL: Modern Problems, Civil Defense and Fire Drills.

"This book is recommended by all my students."
MRS. HELEN LENGAS: History, Faculty Social Committee, Americans Abroad Coordinator.
MRS. CAROLINE WINSTON: History. ANDREW POGOLER: Modern Problems, History, Book Store.



The history department played host to some of the more sophisticated members of the faculty.

BRUCE JOHNSON: History, Physical Education, Hi-Y, Assistant Football Coach, Sophomore Wrestling Coach, Boys Intramural Program. VERNON SMITH: History, Junior Council.

CHRISTIAN SKJERVOLD: History, Lunchroom Supervision, Hall Guards. FLOYD PEARSON: History, Auditorium Committee, National Honor Society.

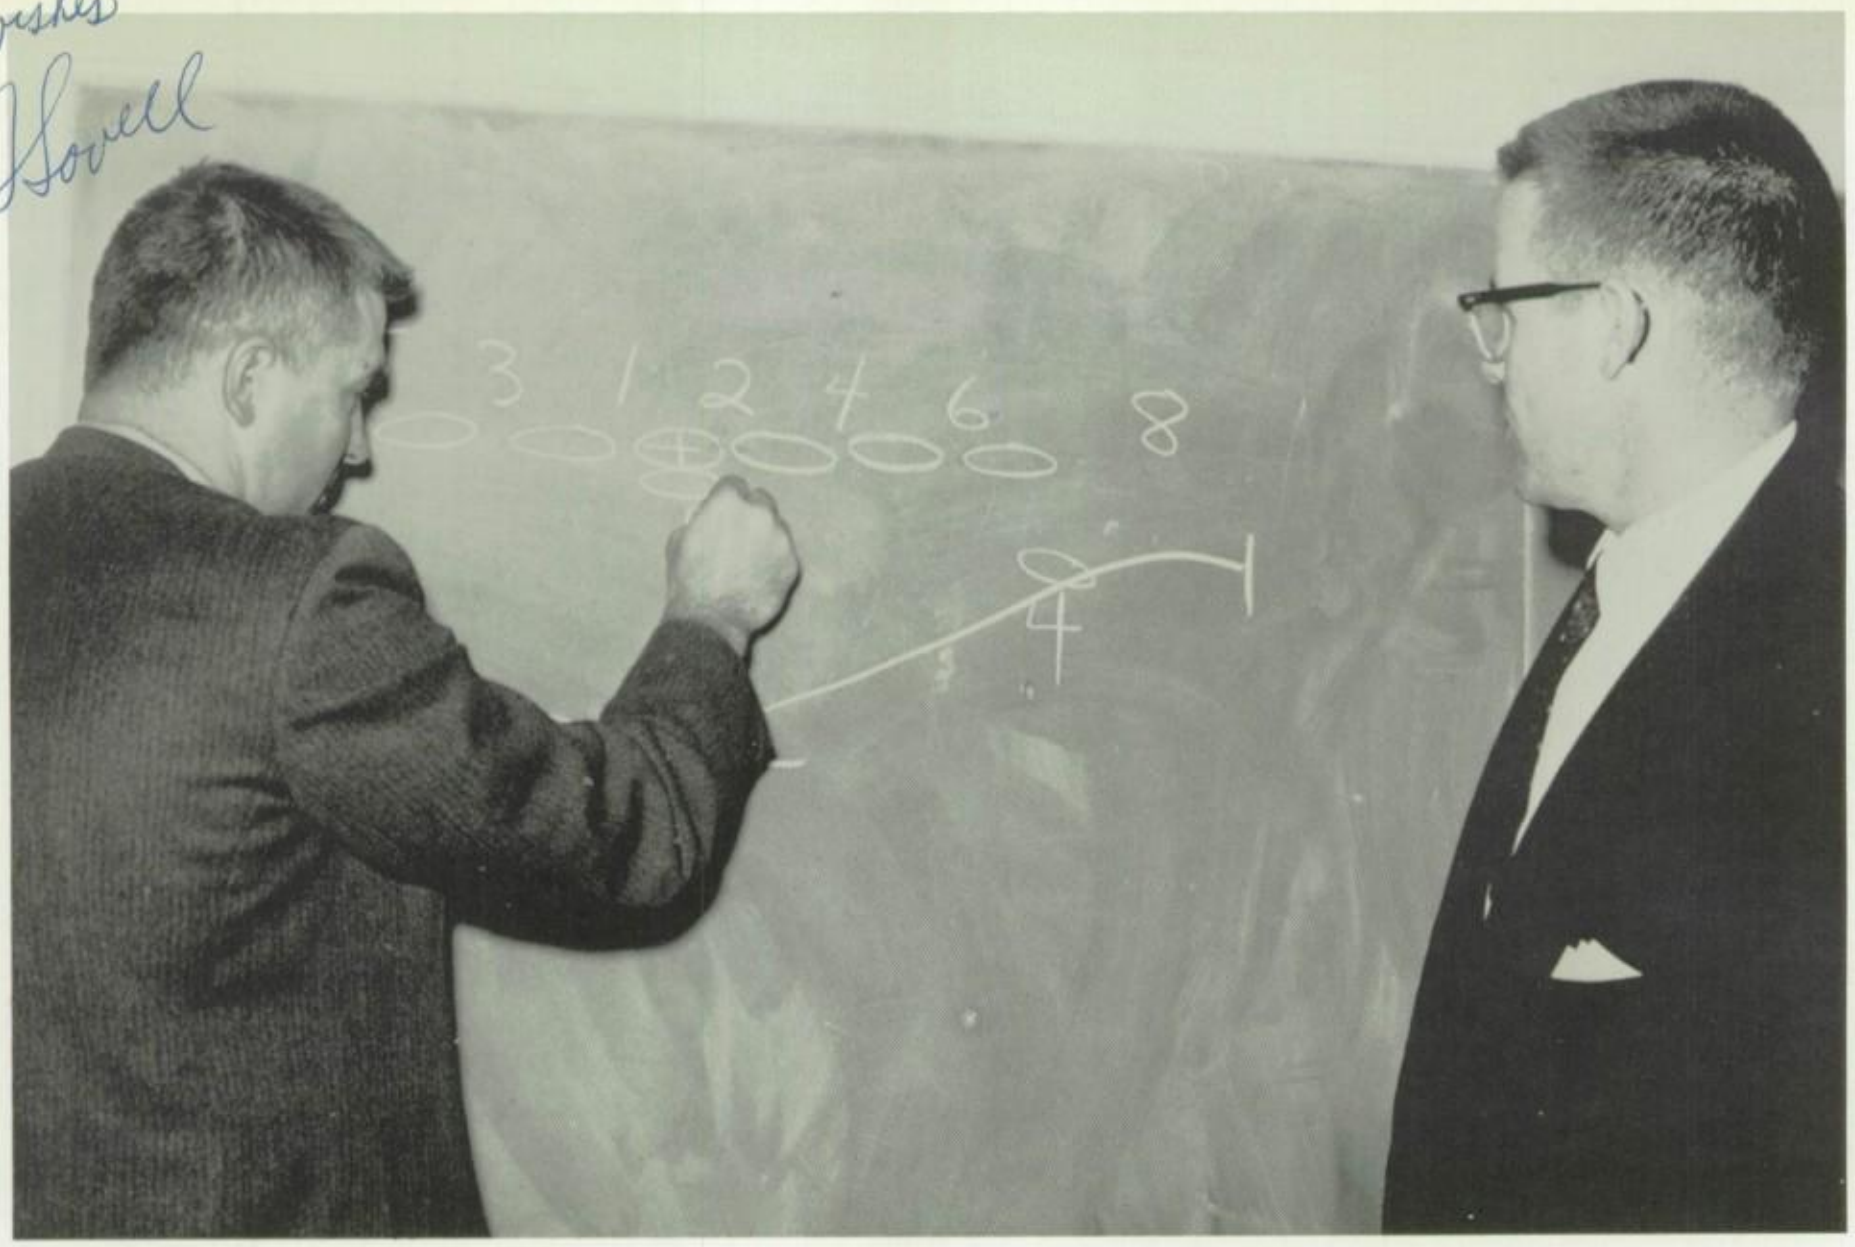
Signing up for films was one of the less confusing jobs of the history teachers.

RICHARD SMITH: History, Industrial Arts, Senior Budget, Polaris Yearbook Business Manager. JOHN CONOVER: History, Sophomore Basketball Coach, Banking, Dedication Day. HAAKON CARLSON: History, Prom, Swimming Coach.

JOHN SCHNEIDER: Modern Problems, Senior Adviser Chairman.

LOUISE ANDROFF: History, French, Class Memorial, Class Song, AFS Committee.

MRS. CLARICE MILLER: History, English, Senior Math.



"Okay, Mr. Sovell, but how will we ever work that out using real football players?"

DONALD SOVELL: Geometry, Senior Math, Football, Basketball Coach.

Math

For the World of Numbers

North's mathematics program gave students the opportunity to learn a subject known to be valuable to all. Math is used in nearly every position in life. As the teachers have tried to impress upon their students, having a working knowledge of math is a desirable advantage.

North offered a variety of math courses. While some took general math or the general senior math course, many of the students took algebra and plane geometry. They often followed these with advanced algebra, trigonometry, and solid geometry.

LLOYD RUTGERSON: Advanced Math, Advanced Algebra, Trigonometry.

STUART BUTTERFIELD: Elementary Algebra, Geometry, Senior Tickets.

HARRIET MADIGAN: Geometry, Advanced Algebra, Math Department Chairman, Tickets.

ELMER EDLUND: Geometry, Elementary Algebra, Polarettes, Senior Class Elections.

MILTON KLEVEN: Senior Math, Advanced Algebra, Senior Banquet.

"I guess my man-eating fish doesn't care too much for hot dogs."

DONALD WANDER: Science.

MATHILDA KREFTING: Botany, Biology, Floral Decorations.

"The Future Through Science"

While dissecting in biology labs, picking leaves in botany, or sweeping up broken test tubes in chemistry, teachers at North kept telling us of the importance of science in the world of today. "You would be impractical to be unconcerned about it," they repeated. "Why, to understand the world of today and that of the future, you must have a knowledge of science." So in all the science courses at North, students would evaluate and re-evaluate their part in science.

A general science course was offered containing studies in all aspects of science, but the specialized fields of biology and botany were also available for the confined study of living things. In his senior year, a student had the opportunity to learn the composition and purpose of objects in a chemistry class.

ALBERT CHRISTOPHERSON: Biology, Audio-Visual, Auditorium Committee, Commencement.

SAMUEL PERRIN: Biology.

Mr. Nalepka prepares for his next class.
WALTER NALEPKA: Science, Biology, Modern Problems, Baseball, Sophomore Football Coach.

"All right, but what time is it?"
CARL KROENING: Chemistry, Driver's Training. ROBERT FRIDGEN: Physics, PSSC, Commencement, Physics Club, Science Department Chairman.

Communication Throughout the World

Language teachers impressed upon their students the necessity of language study as a helpful link in understanding and communicating with foreign cultures.

Two language laboratories made the study of French, German, Norse, Spanish, and Latin easier, both students and faculty agreed.

Parlez-vous francais, tempus fugit, spreched and snakker de norsk were occasionally overheard in the bustling halls between classes. Spanish students found an opportunity to practice speaking with North's own ambassador from Uruguay, Mirtha Haase.

MRS. MARGARET KRAMER: German, German Club, English.

MRS. CAROL JENNINGS: French, French Club, Language Department Chairman.

Olé!

LARS KINDEM: Norse, Viking Club, History, Ski Coach, Track Coach.
BARBARA McKENNEY: Spanish, English, Spanish Club.

Miss Schleyer and Mr. Tomlinson demonstrate what they teach: Art is a relationship of horizontal and vertical lines.

PATRICIA SCHLEYER: Art, Bulletin Boards, Art Department Chairman, Art Club.
DAVID TOMLINSON: Art, Related Arts.

North offered several courses to students wishing to add to their knowledge and skill in art. They learned to express themselves through such media as sketching and painting.

A program of related arts was given to the sophomores to acquaint them with art, music and drama. It was made up of three twelve week sessions in each field. After this course, each sophomore Polar could quickly relate the stories of Van Gogh and his ear, Brahms and his lullaby, and Shakespeare and his ghosts.

Physical Education

To Tone Up North High Polars

"It takes a man," even in the physical education department.
LEWIS BURNETT: Physical Education, Boys' Physical Education Department Chairman, Health, Apparatus Coach, Cross Country Coach, Track Coach.
MRS. JEAN GUSTAFSON: Physical Education, Health, Cheer Leaders, Intramural Program.
MARY JOSEPHSON: Physical Education, Health, Girls' Physical Education Department Chairman, Modern Dance, Auditorium Committee, Intramural Program, Pep Club.

Increased emphasis has been placed on the physical fitness of today's American. A lack of strenuous physical exertion in Polar habits has resulted in a physical education program in which his gym teachers help him to keep fit. They guide him in the understanding and care of his body, coach the many sports that keep him physically alert and allow him to be a gym aide in order to further unfold his skills by helping others to learn.

North's physical education department strives to develop the understanding, care and training which the healthy body needs.

"Who put the bubble gum in my whistle?"
MARILYN TWINING: Health, Girls' Athletic Association, Sixth Period Supervision.
LELAND SNELL: Physical Education, Health, Lunchroom Supervision, Football Coach.

Music

Music Department Tunes 'Em up

North offers rewarding musical experience to both the talented and the not-so-talented Polar. It takes a combination of hard work, interest, cooperation and a constant effort to develop ability to constitute a desirable music student. Study and performance of both vocal and instrumental music offer the student an emotional experience that cannot be found in academic work, since music is largely a product of the senses rather than of the intellect. Students may find the opportunity for enjoyment and a sense of fulfillment in Polaires, "A" Choir, Glee Club, "A" Band or Polar Band.

O. RAYMOND CHAMPLIN: Polaires, "A" Choir, Glee Club, English, Auditorium Committee.

GERALD OAKVIK: "A" Band, Polar Band, Auditorium Committee, Prom.

"I'll sign your discrepancy if you'll sign mine."
RICHARD SMITH: Wood, History, Polaris Yearbook Business Manager, Budget.
EDWARD SOLTYS: Machine Shop, Golf Coach.

The bangs, clanks and buzzes that emerged from the lower halls of North High were the noises that eventually became tables, cabinets, knives, screw drivers and tool boxes.

Although everyone needn't be an expert at Beef Stroganoff, a basic knowledge of cooking and sewing remain part of the wife-and-mother role which will eventually be assumed by most girls. North's home economics courses provide these girls with a chance to develop their skills and learn new ones in preparation for whatever responsibilities they may later face. "Home and Family Living" offers special training in the efficient management of a home. All courses give the student the opportunity to become better prepared for her role as a woman.

MRS. EUDORA ZELLERS: Not pictured. Record Keeping, Typing, Bookkeeping.

New Labs Aid Vocational Classes

Vocational training was offered by the business department with courses in typing, shorthand, business law, bookkeeping and general office skills. Many seniors also took advantage of the work program. In this program, students attended three hours of school in the morning and worked in the afternoon. The work program gave on-the-job training and opportunities to continue full-time work after graduation. A similar sophomore work program was initiated this year.

This year North also had a shorthand lab installed. The lab which contains electronic equipment to make the task of learning shorthand easier for students and teachers both was the first of its kind in the city.

LYNN SMITH: Sophomore Work Program, Occupational Relations.

JEANNE GOCKER: Typing, Sophomore Enrichment Program.

MARJORIE SEALANDER: Shorthand, Typing, Service Group.

AGNES LERSCHEN: Shorthand, Typing, Stenographic Skills, Cap and Gown.

Homecoming Provides Polar Memories

EXCITEMENT! TENSION! ENTHUSIASM! These are the emotions that are involved in an event such as Homecoming. The Student Council kept these in mind as they began the planning of the biggest event of the year. Each year the students who plan Homecoming attempt to make it the best ever, and this year was no exception. The Homecoming buttons were designed with the slogan that would best serve to kindle pep and enthusiasm. Pennants, pompoms and balloons created the atmosphere of excitement and provided the school with a festive appearance.

Another important phase of Homecoming was the selection and crowning of the Homecoming Queen. A system of petitioning was set up by which any senior girl who had the signatures of fifty seniors and who had a C grade average or better was eligible to be considered in the primary voting. Seniors voted in the primary and narrowed the number of candidates down to five girls. These five girls were then presented to the entire student body which cast the final vote. The results of this final voting were not revealed until the Queen's coronation in the Homecoming auditorium.

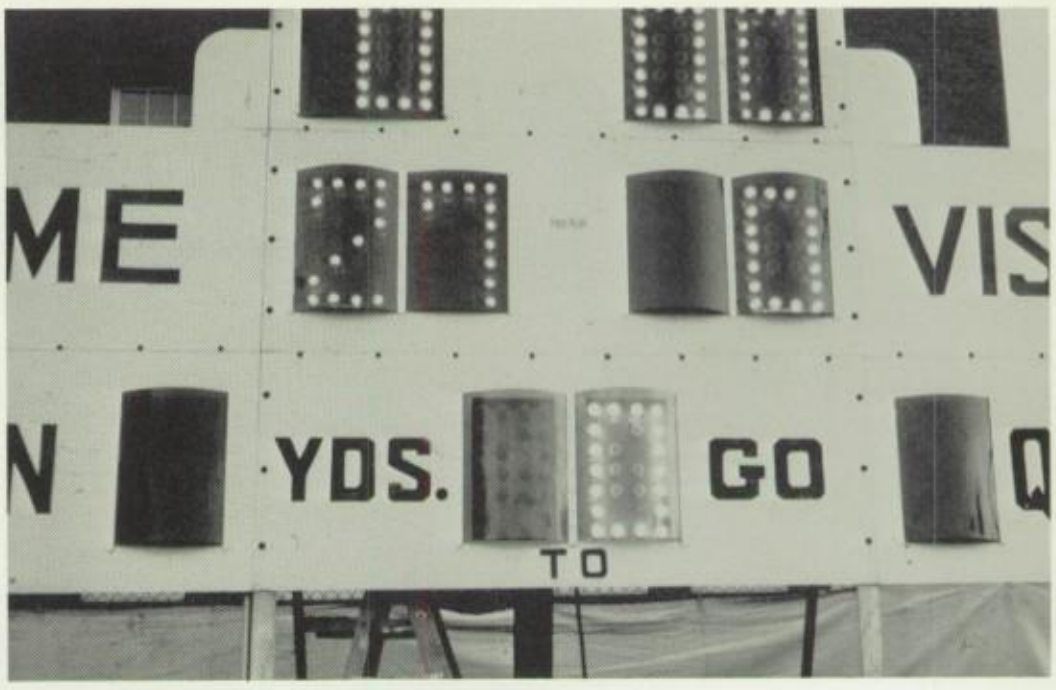
Joni Engleson was chosen to reign as 1964 Homecoming Queen by the two football captains, Henry Hinrichs and Dan Wagner. She was crowned by last year's Queen, Marie Hagen.

Following her coronation, Queen Joni was entertained by alumni and students of North. The alumni were well represented by the Blazemen and last year's cheerleaders. The student body was entertained by a skit by the Drama Club and a song by Robert Fisher.

So decorate already, but this is ridiculous.

Is it all right if I've signed 3 already?

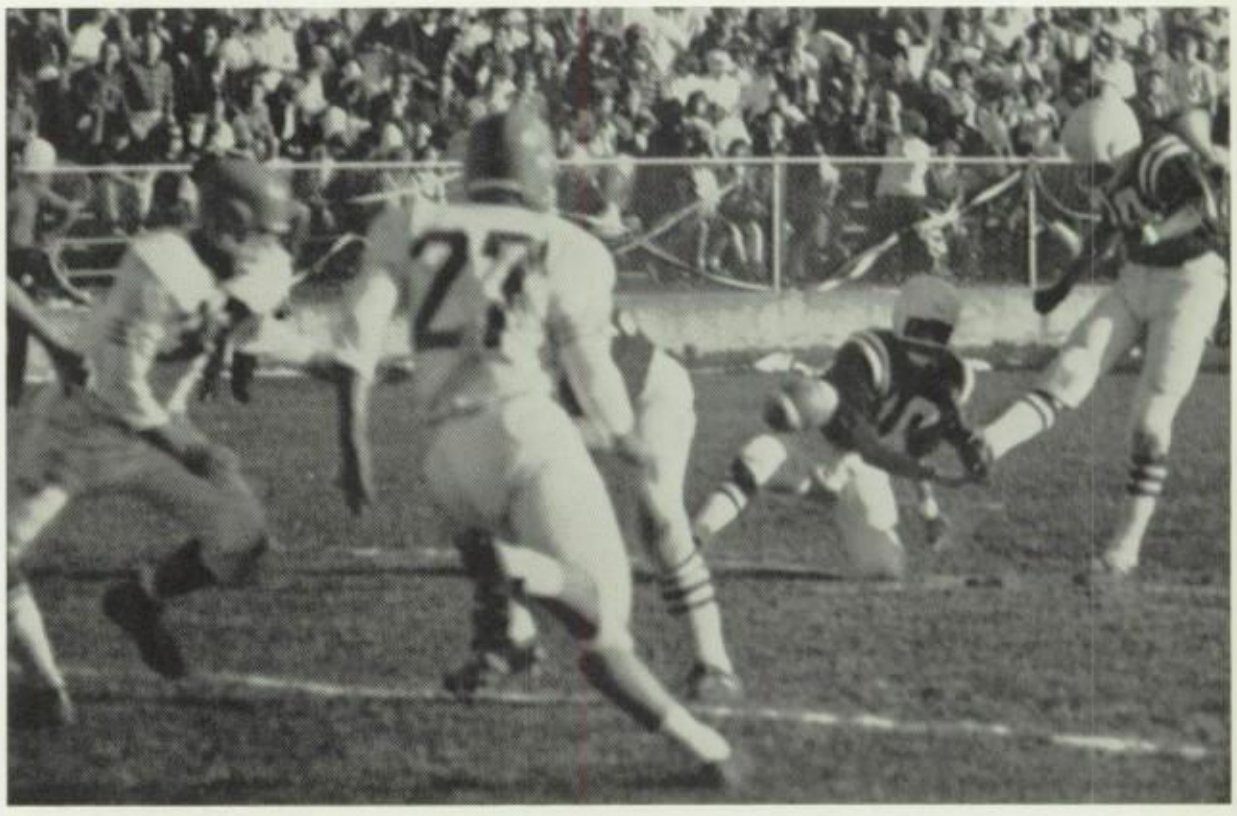
Queen Joni tours the field at halftime as the crowd looks on with interest.



A perfect end to a perfect game.

The one thing that can either make or break Homecoming had not yet occurred. The Homecoming game was undoubtedly the most important part of Homecoming. Winning the game was essential for a successful day, and the students at North experienced this with a capital S as the team came up with a victory of 27 to 0 over South.

Just as the excitement of the game began wearing off, spirits soared as the Homecoming dance got under way. Dancing to the music of the Torquays and the Coronados supplied the finishing touches to a most memorable day.



Aw, quit pullin' my leg, what do you mean I'm kickin' the wrong way?

Queen Joni and her court look radiant as they cheer their team to victory.

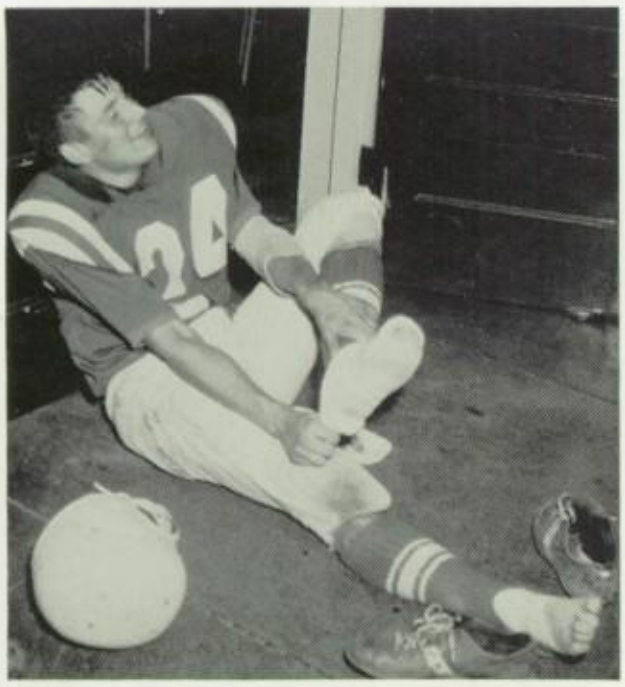
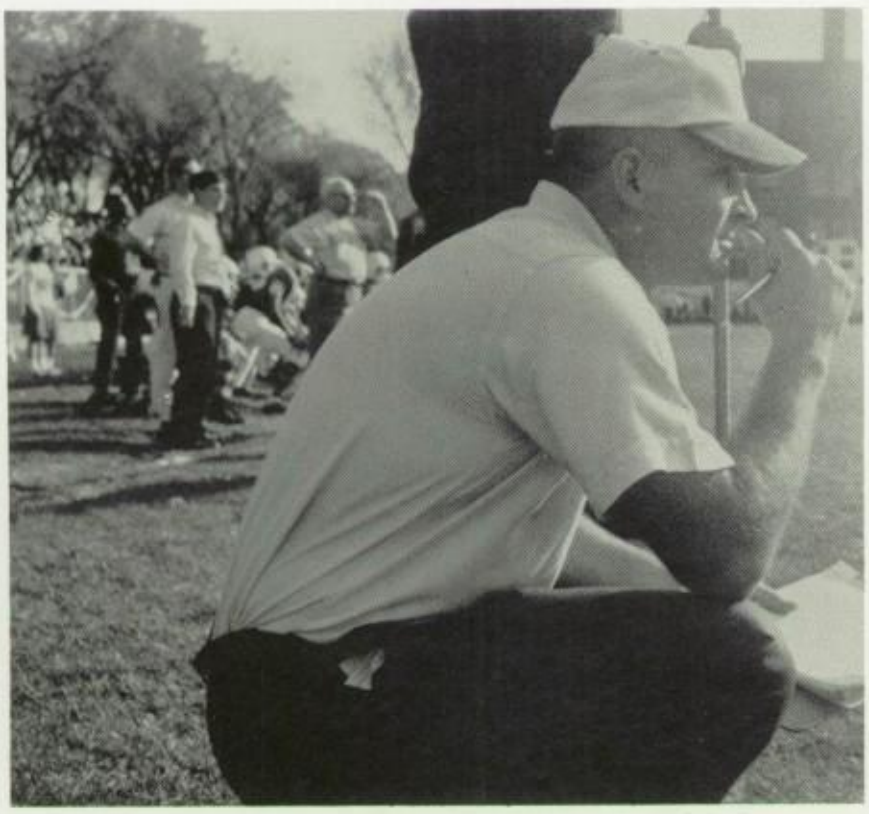
As You Like It

Since the beginning of recorded history, the arrival of a new book has been met with a wave of applause from the author's family and a flood of criticism from arm-chair authors who feel they could do a much better job than he, if they just put their minds to it and had a little time. Because the 1965 yearbook staff is now dissolved and since it would be difficult to find them among the thousands of North High alumni, we have given you this page, to capture in a small way some of the thrill which an editor feels as he chooses just the right caption for one of a thousand pictures.

Check your choice (in your heart, you know you're right.)



- ☐ Ah, relief!
- ☐ Those Polarettes are cute and fun to dance with, but . . . those kicks sure are hard on the feet.
- ☐ It feels good to get the old spikes off after running on all those band instruments.



- ☐ Was that lox and bagels or bagels and cream cheese that I was supposed to bring home after the game?
- ☐ I wonder if I could trip that quarterback and get away with it?
- ☐ I hope we make some yardage soon; I've been sitting here so long that I'll need that pole to get up again.

- ☐ If you sophomores don't quit laughing, I'll make you come up here and cheer with me!
- ☐ "Rutga-Stuga . . . Sticks and Stumps," Mr. Johnson said cheerfully.
- ☐ You kids better hustle up and start doing what you're supposed to do, out there where you're supposed to be.

Don't get pushy!

Love in broom, or how to get swept off your feet.

Snow! Snow! and more snow! This was the cry of the Student Council as they made preparations for Sno-Week. Their pleas did not go unheeded. The huge drifts piled up as the time drew near for the activities to begin. By the time Snow-Week was here, all of Polar-Land was blanketed with layers of clean white snow. The Student Council organized itself for action by dividing into committees. Each committee was assigned a special phase of Sno-Week. Although the temperature often dipped way below zero, spirits remained high. Many Polars could be seen braving the cold and stumbling through the snow to the pep fests held every morning at eight o'clock. At three o'clock it was back outside into the cold where many Sno-Week contests took place.

The Polaris yearbook staff came up with a smashing victory over the Polaris Bi-weekly staff in the annual broom-hockey game. The Polarettes and the cheerleaders decided to try their hand at the sport of basketball, and the Polarettes suffered a crushing defeat. The band and choir interrupted their musical pursuits long enough to tangle in a stirring basketball game in which the choir regained the "Musical-Basketball" title. The seniors took on the faculty in a game of volleyball that never fails to be a hilarious performance of athletic ability. Much to the disappointment of Mr. Pearson and the rest of the faculty, the superior seniors showed that volleyball is a young person's sport. The Dog Sled Race was a new Sno-Week activity, introduced by "Tiger Jim Anderson." The dog team sponsored by the N-Club came crashing over the finish line miles ahead of everyone else and made Kathy Gohmert the Dog Sled Princess. The language clubs showed their interest in Sno-Week competition by organizing a tug-of-war. It seems that French is the langauge of tugging athletes, as so ably shown by the members of the French Club. The entire week was filled with good natured rivalry, enjoyment of winter sports, and for the first time in years—SNOW.

There's definitely a chemical reaction here.

On your mark, get set, mush!

The Sno-King candidates were Lance Staricha, Jack Kleven, Jerry Klatte, Hank Hinrichs, Marrell Hall, and Roy Crockett.

Troika Triumphs at Holiday Revue

Who stole the Pink Polar Pearls? This was the big mystery around which the 1965 Holiday Revue was centered. The Revue, an annual show sponsored by the band, featured many talent acts by North students and several numbers by the band. It was high lighted by the crowning of the Sno-King and the Sno-Ball, a dance following the show.

With president Glenn Oren and treasurer Lola Friedman presiding, the small democracy is pictured in action.

"I think we should do something different for Sno-Week this year . . . "

"Why don't we get a bigger band . . . "

"We could use the money we made last time."

Similar disputes were heard all during the year at many Student Council meetings. Members of the Student Council elected from each homeroom represented the entire student body again this year as they led the way through such successful events as Homecoming and Sno-Week. The money earned through these projects went for decorations, the all-city meetings and a large contribution to the American Field Service Program. They also sponsored the Parent Teacher Student Association membership drive.

This year's council, under the direction of its advisors, Mrs. Ruth Hedlund and Mrs. Sarah Meyer, worked out council problems. They profited from past experiences and at the same time set up aids to help future councils. An advisory council, made up of potential officers not elected last year, was also added to the council.

Glenn, Chuck, and Steve were unaware they were to be pictured with girls. Officers are Joanne Engleson, secretary; Charles Alpert, vice-president; Lola Friedman, treasurer; Glenn Oren, president; and Steve Barnett, junior all-city representative.

An able staff of reporters went around the school gathering information to make the Polaris interesting.

Bi-Weekly Writes Polar News

A pounding of keys was heard as the Polaris staff rushed to meet deadlines.

Two groups make up the Polaris Bi-Weekly staff. They were headed this year by the editors, Marsha Rockir and Lee Kampinen. A team of reporters worked with Marsha and Lee in order to put out a newspaper every two weeks. All proceedings were observed by Mr. James Anderson.

An editorial page presented opinions of the editors and students; to provide entertainment, the staff developed a feature page. A cartoon was used in each edition.

A new position was added to the staff this year. Mary Jo Angel took over the spot of Girls' Sports Editor and wrote a column on "News & Views on the Girls' Sports Scene."

There seemed to be joy in admiring one's work. Editorial staff: Bruce Vinokour, Ralph Berlovitz, Joni Michelson, Marsha Rockir, Gayle Perkins.

Bankers Tidy Sums

Soon after school started, banking envelopes were passed out and a banking representative was chosen from every homeroom. The age-old sign went up on the bulletin board—"Friday is bank day."

North students may have wondered if their money ever got to their accounts; but under the direction of Mr. Conover and school cashiers, Shirley Ferris and Virginia Fern, the banking staff worked without casualty.

They Sold THIS

When the first of June rolled around, the excitement mounted while students waited for the yearbooks to arrive. When the underclassman got his yearbook, it was because of the efforts of the homeroom yearbook representative. One person in each homeroom took the orders, collected the money in three payments and later turned it in to the faculty advisor, Mr. Richard Smith.

Sophomores bought yearbooks mainly because everyone told them they'd be sorry in June if they didn't. The book was a record of a junior's years between "childhood and maturity." To a senior, the book represented the memories of his last adolescent year.

Yearbook Staff Books THE Year

Students passing by Room 100 during sixth hour throughout the year often heard much yelling and screaming.

As Editor-in-Chief Tom Zoet cracked the whip, yearbook staff members shrieked and scurried to their work. When deadlines drew near, the whip often changed hands among the top officers. Business managers Terry White and Ken Smith yelled that more yearbooks needed to be sold. Leslie Weisman, picture co-ordinator, and photographers Joel Ziff, Lee Field and Terry White hollered that picture request forms needed to be filled out. Copy editor Patricia Lundgren cried for correct copy promptly. The remainder of the staff got satisfaction from hearing the staff advisor, Miss Ruth Person vetoing the ideas of the big wheels.

Out of this confusion came a yearbook that presented the many sides and angles of life at North, recorded the activities, pictured friends and brought back memories of the days past to make a record of the whole year.

Underclass section workers Carole Rochat and Lola Friedman and Nancy Arf, Senior section, look up to the Faculty section leaders Kathy Tripp and Marilyn Behling.

Projection, Stage Crews Toil

Whether it was in the auditorium or a classroom, when the lights went off, the projector started humming and an image was formed on the screen, someone on the audio-visual crew was at work. Without them North wouldn't have been able to use many of the educational aids we had. To supply the needs of the learning mind, the crew, under the direction of Mr. Christopherson, was behind every movie projector, tape recorder, record player and television set in the school.

"Due to technical difficulties there will be a slight delay." Pictured are audio-visual members Roger Pipp, Bruce Erichsen, Tony Denardo, Darrel Sandusky.

Many of the construction jobs around North were performed by the ever present stage crew. Without their help, there could have been no successful auditorium programs. Their duties ranged from building sets for plays and making washers for pumps, to cleaning up after a messier production. With advice from Mr. Gary Parker, the boys helped to make the programs come off with few problems.

Stage Crew

"Heigh-ho, heigh-ho, it's off to work we go," chant stage crew members, Don Hoeft, Ken Stine, Dan Manuel, Duane Witherspoon, Augusta Wooley, Mike Richie, Tom Stine.

Pep-ers Provide Pep

A cheer goes up in the stands.

Think back on the past year and especially to the games. Keep in mind all the cheering and then think of those who supported the team, coaches, and cheerleaders. We all did, but the members of the Pep Club worked extra hard. They were out at every game yelling the old familiar cheers. This year they added a card section which could be seen at the tops of the stands at every game with slogans like Victory, Polars, and NHS.

One requirement for the Pep Club—a desire to work for school spirit. This year an amazing number of energetic girls turned out.

Under the direction of Miss Josephson, the girls devoted much time and work to keeping school spirit at a high peak.

Officers Marcia Putnam, JoAnn Oppegard, Diana Isenhower, Linda LeDuc and Ceceila Wirth planned the annual fund drive.

Members of North's Red Cross began a new project this year by conducting a scrapbook exchange. Working in committees, they contributed different articles symbolizing daily life in this area and at North High in particular. Scrapbooks were then sent to and received from foreign schools. Some members also worked as volunteers in nearby hospitals.

Mrs. MacInnes was in charge and helped in organizing this group. The annual membership drive took up the greatest amount of time because posters were made and money collected from the students for North's contribution to the International Red Cross.

Certain boys at North had an opportunity to get better acquainted with each other and with boys and girls from other schools. These boys belonged to Hi-Y which is associated with the Y.M.C.A. Their Y leader, Arnie Mavis, and their school advisor, Mr. Bruce Johnson, contributed time to meet with the boys. Any boy could join by signing up in the fall.

A wide variety of activities filled the meeting nights such as joints, business meetings, panels from the University of Minnesota and sports. The facilities of the Y were open for their indoor sports such as basketball. The outdoors provided them with such sports as broom hockey and sliding.

Books Surround NHS Honorables

North's Honor Society, under the new leadership of Mr. Floyd Pearson, sponsored a service project known as B.E.E., Books for Equal Education. In this drive, members collected slightly used books from North students and teachers to send to southern Negro schools in an effort to help them gain accreditation. Many of these books had the familiar label, "Paid—North High Bookstore," as this organization carried on successfully in its second year of operation. Mr. Andrew Pogoler, advisor of the bookstore, and nine members devoted much time and effort to this project.

Inductions were held in the winter and the spring for those students who showed qualities of scholarship, leadership, character and service. Members held a banquet, a picnic and took a trip in addition to their service project.

Leslie Weisman, chairman of the B.E.E., smiles over the piles of books brought in by North students.

Holiday Revue, Awards, Trip, Practice Combine for Memorable Band Year

The Pink Polar roamed the area of North High during Sno-week, February 8-12. The Holiday Revue, under the direction of band president Tom Zoet and fellow band council members Mark Siegel and Steve Barnett, presented a show made up of talent from the band and ten other acts from the student body. The climax of Sno-week was the crowning of the Sno-King, which was part of the Holiday Revue program.

Band members with their leader Mr. Gerald Oakvik played together during the summer while performing in various parades. They marched in the Aquatennial, Northside, Hopkins, Northeast and Crystal parades, and took high honors in all of them.

The band represented North at Parade Stadium at the Football Preview before school had started. Putting on half-time shows for home football games meant more hours out on the field during fourth hour.

St. Louis, Missouri, was the city of the year for band members who worked hard to earn their trip there. Proceeds from the Holiday Revue went into the band trip fund along with money made from selling candy and having car washes and rummage sales.

Having musical ability and a lot of enthusiasm were the two main requirements for being in the band. This year the policy of putting the incoming sophomores into the Polar Band, which met first hour, was tried out. After the first semester, they could challenge a member of A band, and if they had better ability, they were transferred there.

We're not talking while the flavor lasts.

Bandells Sandy Korogi, Donna Merchant, Pam Rocheleau, Diane Werp, Barb Jarosak, Pat Draves, Mary Wuollett, Candace Sopoci, Bonnie Neale, and Corona Relopez danced up a storm at the Holiday Revue and throughout the year.

Accompanist for the band this year was Leland Kampinen.

North Choir Serves, Sells,

This year's choir, directed by Mr. O. Raymond Champlin, performed for North on several occasions. Besides the usual Christmas program, the members performed at Brookdale Shopping Center and also gave a spring concert.

North's choir continued its busy schedule by participating in the State Music Contest and the St. Olaf Music Festival. Once again the Alka-Seltzer had to be ready because a great deal of candy was sold to raise money for the annual choir trip.

Some members of the choir joined the Polaires when they caroled along downtown streets at Christmas time. During Sno-Week the choir fulfilled a challenge with the band in basketball to settle their annual feud.

Mr. Champlin accepted a check for the Polaires from one member of the military order of Cooties after their performance for veterans.

Anyone who was interested in joining the choir simply talked with Mr. Champlin and tried out. Choir members are FIRST ROW: Nancy Arf, Connie Wheeler, Sandra Oltman, Anne-Liis Baunis, Joanne Engleson, Nancy Zoet, Joyce Tolkinen, Evonne Libson, Samuel Liberman, Daniel Manuel, David Addis, Patrick Winn, Mary Greer, Renee Hamlin, Mary Jo Hoff, Jean Baker, Kathy Gohmert, Halina Ancer, Colleen Chell, Marleen Anderson, Lynda Palmer, Leni Benjamin, Bonita Field, Diane Evjen. Y-TEENS

". . . a fellowship of women and girls devoted to . . . realizing . . . ideals of personal and social living . . ." is the motto of Y-Teens. Y-Teens, under the direction of Mrs. Claire Peterson of the Y.W.C.A., is an organization for every high school girl. Members were divided into seven chapters each headed by its own elected officers. Activities on the chapter level varied from service projects and religion to overnights and parties.

On the all-school level, seven officers were elected to preside during the year. These officers coordinated the all-school activities such as service projects, bake sales, other money raising projects, a recognition dinner, movies and the annual Christmas dance. The movie "One God" discussing the three major religions of the world was shown this year. Miss Judy McComb, the school advisor, attended meetings and added suggestions for improvement.

Future Homemakers Envision Future Homes

Future Homemakers of America was organized at North under the direction of Mrs. Mary Sargent. Members learned through experience how to handle everyday situations. In addition to improving personal living, they planned projects to help others and had fun in the process. These girls sponsored a cookie sale for teachers and held a mother and daughter Christmas party. To raise money for future projects, they sold cookbooks.

"Anarchy" Creates

"We want people to know about the art department." This was the expressed purpose of the Art Club under the direction of Miss Patricia Schleyer. Members felt there wasn't enough publicity given to the department and they set out to get it some.

Feeling they weren't necessary, the club elected no officers and they maintained that their projects didn't suffer as a result. Projects included the eight-foot high Santa that greeted Polars in the winter and its replacement in the spring—a giant Easter bunny.

Boys who earned one hundred points by participating in the varied sports activities at North were awarded "N's" and became eligible for membership in N Club. This group was organized to encourage boys to participate in athletics and to help North's athletic program.

Helping to keep the lunchroom clean was a task the N Club added to its usual custom of selling graduation announcements. In the spring, the members, their fathers and Mr. Donovan Strickland, the N Club advisor, held a banquet that featured a sports celebrity. At that time, the senior pins and letters for spring sports were awarded.

N Club officers were Hank Hinrichs, secretary; Lance Staricha, president; Roy Crockett, treasurer.

N.F.L.-ers Gain Distinction, Recognition,

Chatting, orating, discussing, dramatizing and almost any other type of speaking were the means by which the National Forensic League enabled students to become better speakers. For each event in which NFL-ers participated, they were given points toward national degrees—Honor, Excellence and Outstanding.

Speech activities were divided into three phases: speech, consisting of oratory, readings, storytelling and impromptu; a student Congress to which members were sent as Congressmen; and debate in which Bruce Barenbaum was an active member. Each phase of forensic activity brought awards and recognition to North, among them best speaker and debate awards.

Aided by their ability to speak, NFL-ers sold school novelties to pay for national dues and tournament fees. Novelties which all carried the "Minneapolis North" insignia included pens, pencils, memo books, key lights and stationery.

To help advisor Edana M. Connors coordinate the league were Patricia Lundgren, president; Napoleon Crutchfield, business manager; Linda Schleter, secretary; and Robert Fisher, publicity chairman.

Drama Club Begins New Season With Festival, Plays, Tours

"Who are those kids that are dressed so funny?" may have been the question asked by a student upon seeing someone scurrying from room 104 to the auditorium. They were often a member of the Drama Club in his costume going to practice for his part in the scene.

Mark Siegel, president, and Joanne Geye, secretary-treasurer, were elected by one of the largest memberships in years, about 100 members.

The club started out a busy year with many of its members helping or having parts in the class play, The Miracle Worker. All students who attended agreed that the Shakespearean Scene Festival was a great success. Participating in the Twin City and suburban theater seminar and making tours of the Guthrie and St. Paul Theaters added to the activities of the club. The Region Five drama contest was held at North under the direction of the club's advisor, Mr. Gary Parker.

Members represented the French Club at the Festival of Nations held in the fall at the University of Minnesota. There the students learned about the language and got to speak with some French-speaking people.

Mrs. Carol Jennings headed the group and helped them plan their French-style dinner at the end of the year.

¡Hola! Polars

¡ Vivan los matadores! was the cheer of the Spanish club members at their Halloween and Christmas parties. These were the festive parts of the year, but they also had the more serious side. Taking part in the Festival of Nations at the St. Paul Auditorium and hosting the Language Festival at the University were the two more important events of the year.

Janice Ratsch, president; Napoleon Crutchfield, vice president; Sharon Zimmerman, secretary; Joseph Randolph, treasurer; and Carroll Udell, sergeant-at-arms, formed the club's cabinet. Miss McKenney advised the club.

Headed by Mrs. Grace Barsness and the officers the club was a profitable experience for its members.

In November, 1963, the Student Council began the American Field Service program to bring a foreign student to North for a year. With assistance from the Junior Class Council, a student committee and an adult committee were formed to help in the organization of this project.

After several families were interviewed, it was decided that Mirtha Haase, a student from Uruguay, would live with the Thomas Hansens.

North, through participation in this program, became eligible for the program which allows an American student to study abroad.

Mirtha Haase's American family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hansen, Carolyn and Richard.

Scientists Enlighten, Jr. Council Prepares

Officers of the Junior Class Council, Gary Rosen, Colleen Chell, Fred Knight and Marsha Johnson rehearsed for one of their dances.

When the Junior Class Council of 1965 met at the beginning of the year, it had the records of previous councils to guide them. A delegate from each junior homeroom was elected to the council by the students, and this group was advised by Mr. Vern Smith.

Plans for the junior events, besides elections, was the purpose of the first meeting which was presided over by Colleen Chell. An all-school dance was suggested and eventually held on December 18. The council discussed the approaching elections and plans for proposed seating arrangements in the auditorium in their senior year. They attempted to learn from past errors and successes to make theirs a better council.

Polarettes Pertly Practice, Perform

Precision was the word for this year's Polarettes. Led by captain Joni Engleson and co-captain Lola Friedman, the line practiced once a week. To create enthusiasm during the year they danced at home football games, the football and basketball previews, various pep fests and parades during the summer. Joni choreographed all the dances and the girls made their own costumes. The line, made up of eleven seniors and three juniors, was picked according to their dancing ability. Mr. Elmer Edlund was their faculty advisor.

The Polarette officers are Pat Thureson, treasurer; Joni Engleson, captain; Lola Friedman, co-captain.

Spirit, spirit, and more spirit was the goal of this year's cheerleaders. The girls led the school in cheering the teams to victory during the football, basketball and hockey seasons. They used skits during pep fests to remind the student body that their support was needed at games. They worked to perfect their cheers and skits at least twice a week. Seniors Kathy Gohmert, Phyliss Kramer, Jean Baker, Sue Anderson and Patti Berg and juniors Carol Rucke, Diane Darsow and Colleen Chell under co-captains Bonnie Hyatt and Judy Derscheid were picked last spring by the graduating cheerleaders, Mrs. Gustafson and other members of the faculty.

G-r-r-r-r! Here comes the North High polar bears. During the year they added spirit to football, basketball, hockey games and pep fests. Chosen to become this year's mascots were Joyce Mayberg and Barb Buchholz with Joanne Geye as alternate. The girls were picked by the graduating seniors and their advisor, Mrs. Gustafson, according to their personality, creativity and pantomime ability.

Sportive Girls Enjoy Sports

"Now what do we do?" ask Vicki, Nancy and Caryn.

North's sports-minded girls had two possible outlets for their energy: the intramural program and the Girls' Athletic Association. The intramural program offered tennis and badminton advised by Miss Josephson and golf, bowling and homeroom volleyball advised by Mrs. Gustafson. The girls were organized into sports clubs in which they learned playing skills. The more advanced players were on teams which competed against girls from other schools. The G.A.A., advised by Miss Twining offered a variety of activities.

There are four requirements for a tennis player—ball, racket, net and enthusiasm. All were present this year in Miss Josephson's tennis club. The group gathered every Tuesday during the fall and spring at North Commons. The most advanced players were chosen to play on the team which, led by Marsha Rockir, competed against other city schools.

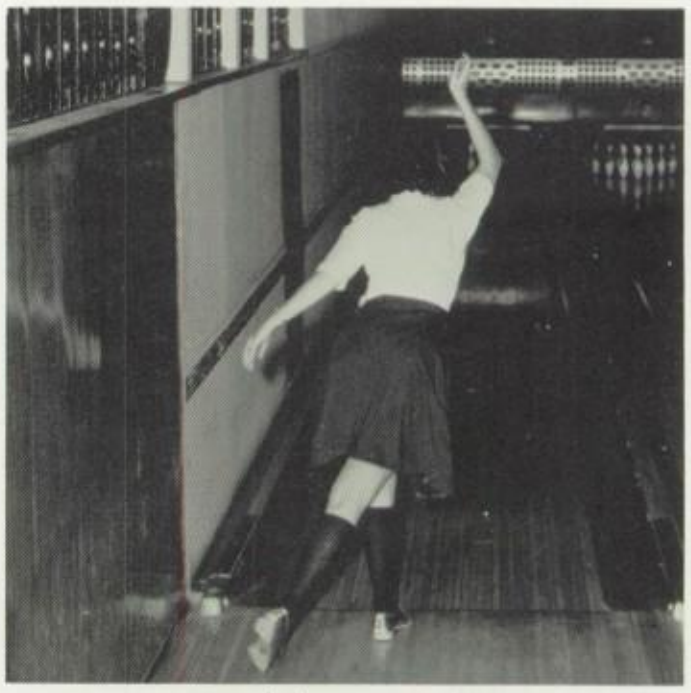
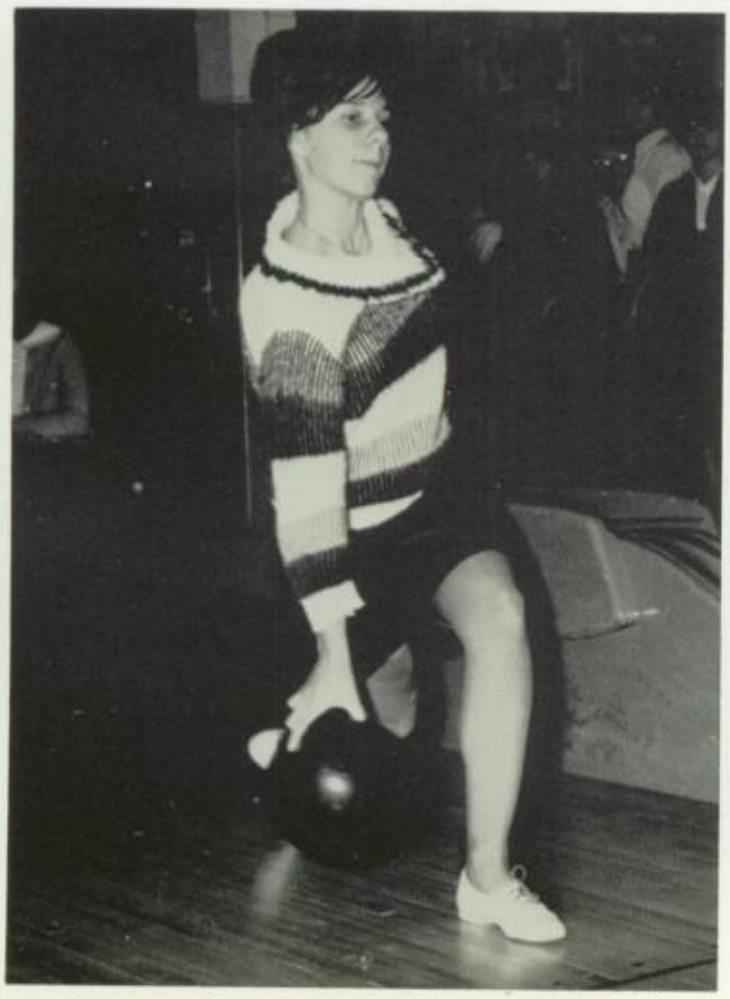
Girls Become Polar Bowlers

K. C. Lanes was the place to find the girl bowlers of North. Every Monday afternoon they rolled at least two games while Mrs. Gustafson advised. They continued to improve their scores during intramural competition.



And away we go!



This kind of bowling strikes everyone.

I wonder which alley I can hit this time.

For Girls

Badminton . . .

Ethel Donnell studies captain Gerry Dooley's smash.

"I'll get that fly once and for all!" says Pat Gleason.

Birdies in the lights of the girls gym show that the girls badminton club has been at work. Under the direction of Miss Josephson, the girls practiced and competed in a tournament each week. After the completion of the tournament the top players were chosen to be on one team. This team, under the leadership of captain Geraldine Dooley, played other city teams.

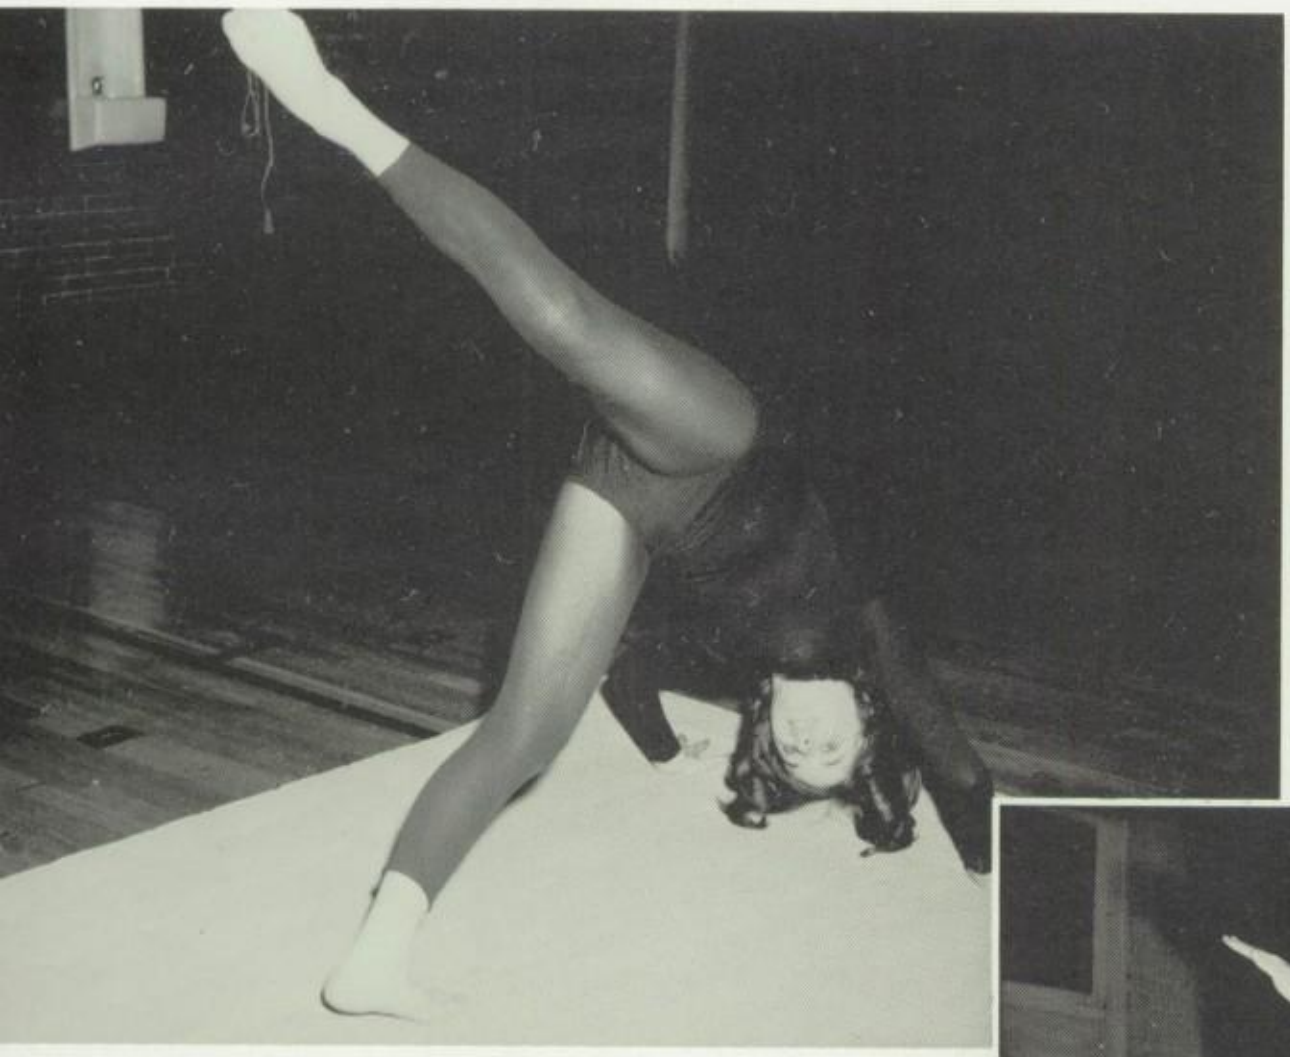
. . . Golf, Gymnastics

Fore! This cry, familiar to all golfers, again rang out for the female duffers of North. They practiced every week during the fall at Theodore Wirth golf course. Those with the best scores were eligible for the team, which competed against other city schools in the spring under the direction of Mrs. Gustafson.

Captain Marlene Bromberg tees off.



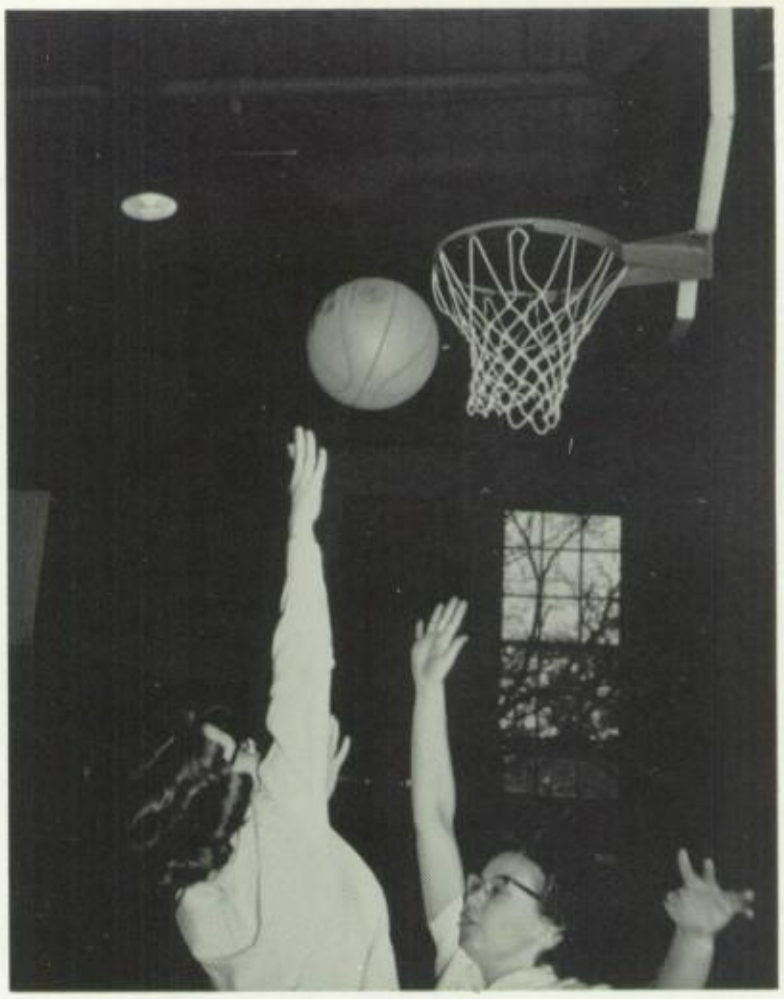
"Peekaboo," says tumbler Mary Earley.

Gymnastics competition was something new this year for girls at North. As one of the G.A.A. activities advised by Miss Twining all girls could go out for this sport. For the first several weeks members were introduced to the equipment; then those who wanted to compete in the intraschool meet began to specialize. The meet, which included free exercise, uneven parallel bars, the buck, tumbling and the balance beam, was judged by Miss Twining and other city gym teachers.

"Come fly with me," invites Donna Nelson

"Get those rebounds, dribble down the floor!" This applied to the girls at North as well as the boys this year because the G.A.A. included basketball in its sports schedule. A round-robin tournament opened the season in mid-January. As in other G.A.A. team sports, a class tournament followed and an all-star team was chosen.

G.A.A. Gets Girls Groups Going



A little height helps.

"Watch us do our exercises," says the volleyball team.

"He was about so tall!"

A four-team round-robin volleyball tournament opened the G.A.A. sports program last fall. After the tournament, which was won by Bertha Brown's team, the best players were chosen by their captains to play on class teams. Another tournament followed with the sophomores taking first place. Then an all-star team chosen from the class teams practiced several weeks in preparation for a volleyball sports day held at North on December 12. The team tied for fourth place in the tournament in which eight other schools participated.

"If we all concentrate I'm sure you could hit it!" shrieks the volleyball team.

Girls Athletic Association returns to North! Led by Miss Twining and a ten-member planning board, G.A.A. was back after a two year absence. Interest in the organization was very high, and membership steadily increased during the year. The year's activities included individual sports, team sports, a Christmas party, a service project, along with meetings once a month. Trophies, medals and pins were given according to participation in the year's activities.

"We'll perform our duties as soon as we find them," said Sue Forbes and Bonnie Neale.

"Correct tests, record grades, patrol the locker room, get that equipment out!" These duties echoed through the minds of North's gym leaders this year. Another duty included skillfully guiding lost sophomores and jumping juniors through the paces of getting a gym credit. The twenty-five girls were trained in their junior year by Mrs. Gustafson.

Football Spirit Runs High

Lee Snell coached what he called one of the hardest-fighting teams ever to play for North. They played every game right up to the final whistle. Although the Polars only won three of the nine games, West and Washburn were the only conference teams to beat them by more than two touchdowns.

A 12-6 victory over Henry, North's arch rival, began the season and gained the Northside Championship. Then North suffered four tough defeats at the hands of Southwest, West, Washburn and Central. Hobbs Field was the scene of true Polar spirit on October 16, 1964. The Polars "Weighed Down South" for a 27-0 Homecoming victory. The following week they traveled to Marshall to humble the Cardinals 28-7. In the third game at Parade Stadium, North fell to Roosevelt 21-7. The season ended with a non-conference loss to Anoka.

Quarterback Henry Hinrichs and center Dan Wagner directed the play on the field as the team captains. Many individuals were honored for their outstanding play. Henry Hinrichs was named "Back of the Week" after the Henry game, and Jack Kleven was named "Lineman of the Week" after his performance in the Marshall game. Kleven led the team in scoring with thirty-one points. During the season, Hinrichs, Kleven, Wagner, Lance Staricha, Clarence Patterson, Bill Manuel and Frank Holley were named to the All-City Teams of the Week. At the close of the season, Dan Wagner was named Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

Coach Snell and his assistants, Don Sovell and Bruce Johnson, praised Bruce Besner, Gary Johnson, Jerry Klatte, Tom Rucke, Jerry Guy and Daryl Lynn for their excellent play. Bob Brabant, a sophomore, played the entire season with the varsity squad. Coach Snell said that he is the brightest prospect on North's line.

Harriers Excel on Track, Sophs Take City

Lewis Burnett added many victories to his coaching record during the 1964 track season. The team won all three of its meets: a quadrangular and two dual meets against Henry and South. In a triangular relay contest, the Polars outran Edison and South. They took two fourth places in the city and Twin City meets.

Individually, Clark captured the city championship in the half mile. Bill Lord broke the North High record in the shot put. He threw the heavy steel ball fifty-two feet and one inch. Jim Rivers, Daryl Lynn, and Jerry Guy paced the team in running. Wade Britzius was also outstanding in the mile run.

Both of the sophomore meets were won by North. They followed that by taking the city championship in a meet held at Southwest.

Thinclads Go Far

North battles for lead in meet against Vocational.

Coach Lewis Burnett

Captain of the cross country team was Ron Jacobson.

From the boys gym in the basement to the third floor typing rooms, no one could out run North's cross country team. This year's thinclads displayed pure speed in long distance running. The team supported a 5-2 season record in the city conference. They defeated Henry, South and Vocational while beating Edison twice.

Captain Ron Jacobson and junior Jim DeBoer led the Polars to a seventh place finish in the city meet. Along with Jacobson and DeBoer, Charles Magill, Jerry Williams, Jeff Kessel, Don Laurence and Ray Saatela showed their speed by placing high in the meet.

Co-captain Mike Thurman, who also was a help in competition, chips to the green.

North's 1964 golf team won its first city championship in many years. Jim Fisher, captain, directed the team to the city title with a 10-0 record. Team members, in order of position, were Gary Ostrin, Jim Fisher, Mike Buhrt, Mike Thurman, Mike King and Steve Prince. Their only opposition in the city came from Edison, who lost to North by the narrow margin of 11-10½.

St. Paul Central made the only black mark on North's record when they won the Twin City match.

North won the District Seventeen title. Ostrin, Fisher and Thurman advanced as a team to the Region Five tournament, a title never before won by North. They shot a combined score of 248 to defeat St. Cloud Tech, Hopkins and Paynesville. The team went on to take fifth place in the state tourney held at the University Golf Course.

This year's co-captains, Ostrin and Thurman, hoped for some good support as Fisher and Buhrt were hard to replace. Through eighteen holes of practice each day in the fall and the spring, Gary Larson, Harvey Frank, Jim Markson and Dan Odegard showed they were capable.

Eighth Place in city

North's 1964 tennis team devoted its season to rebuilding its strength. Greatly hurt by the lack of experience, North finished the season with a 2-8 record. However, the victories over South and Vocational were very impressive.

All the players on the team were underclassmen, except for the captain and number one man, Charles Turchick. Jay Fishman, who finished eighth in the city, led this year's team along with Steve Dobrin.

Gary Parker took over the coaching duties this year. Other outstanding players were John Sullivan, Elliot Rank, Tilman Bergman and Harlow Sanborn. Their year of training under former coach, John Conover, showed through in their excellent play.

North's 1964 baseball team finished the season with a 7-3 record.

Coach Walt Nalepka said that he was forced to rely on pitcher Ken Smiley, who was credited for all seven victories. He added that Al Peterson was also quite effective, but he was hit hard and lost some of his confidence. Jack Kleven led the team in hitting, and John Washington was recognized for his fine fielding at first base.

Kleven, Henry Hinrichs, Jerry Klatte and Gene Burdick returned to their starting positions this year to give North an experienced, hard playing team.

Cagers Excel in Non-Conference Circuit

John Sullivan drives for the basket against Washburn.

North's basketball team received tremendous support from the student body during the season. Although handicapped by the lack of height, North finished the 1964-65 cage season with a 4-6 record in the city conference standings.

Outstanding individual performers included seniors Dave Laulainen, forward and captain; Jack Kleven, center; Henry Hinrichs and Roy Crockett, guards; Bill Manuel and Earl Pettiford; and juniors Tom Spah and John Sullivan.

Starting the season the Polars scored two non-conference victories over Minnehaha Academy 55-32 and Spring Lake Park 54-47. In the annual city basketball preview, North downed Vocational 8-3 in one quarter of play.

In the opening of conference play, the Polars fell to Central 57-45. The following week North was defeated by Roosevelt in the final quarter by the score of 55-46. In a non-conference game in Wisconsin, North lost to Rice Lake by 48-38.

North got on the win column by crushing Marshall 46-35. Henry Hinrichs and Dave Laulainen paced the team with 15 and 12 points respectively.

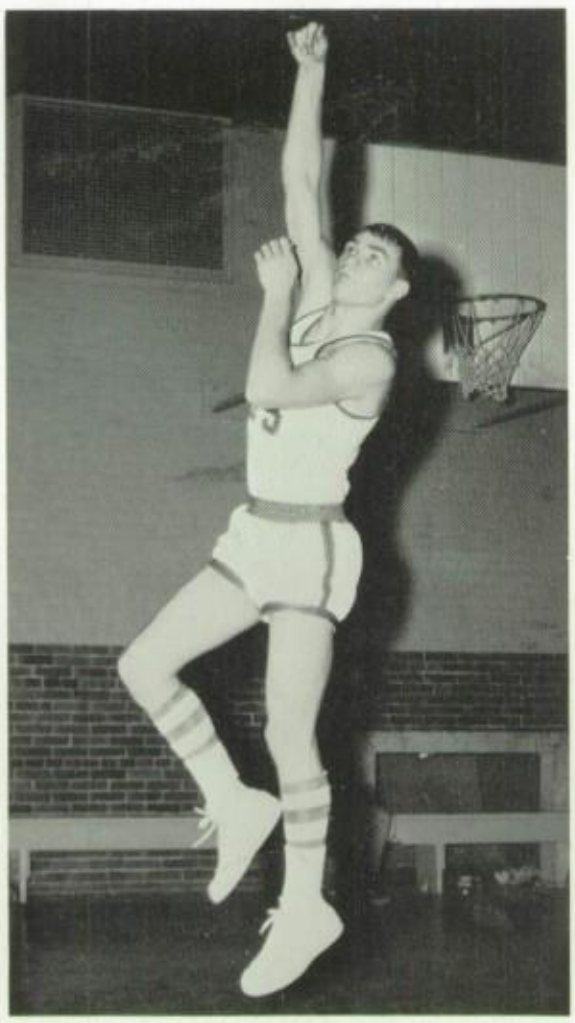
During the winter holidays, North traveled to Austin, Minnesota, and lost 77-64. North then traveled to one of the smallest towns in Minnesota, Dassel, where they romped to a 62-54 victory. Henry Hinrichs scored a total of 59 points in both games, 29 at Austin and 30 at Dassel.

ROY CROCKETT, guard, was one of the smallest men in the conference.

Why is everyone standing around the basket?

Senior Cagers Sigh as Sovell Says, "Studyhall"

HENRY HINRICHS, a 5'11" guard, was North's playmaker. Hank was the team's top scorer with a total of 235 points. He was named to the All-City Second Team.



JACK KLEVEN, a 6'0" center, was North's defensive specialist. Taking this into consideration, "Jumping Jack" still managed to shoot a 10.2 average.

Returning to conference action, North lost a barnburner to Southwest 62-53. The game was played at the Southwest gym, for this year the Indians were the first team to play their games on their home court rather than in the Minneapolis Auditorium. After the Southwest game, non-conference action saw the Polars defeating Rosemount 42-30.

Polar cagers felt that they played their finest game of the year against Henry. The Polars retained the Northside championship by beating the Pats 65-52. Henry Hinrichs, Dave Laulainen and Jack Kleven scored a total of 48 points.

West stopped North's bid for two consecutive victories by edging the Polars 56-50. North had the lead for most of the game but lost it in the final moments. Hinrichs scored 19 points for the cagers.

North drew the bye the following week and in a non-conference tilt, the team downed host Albert Lea 59-46. Again Hinrichs was the top point-getter with 19, while Roy Crockett added 13 more.

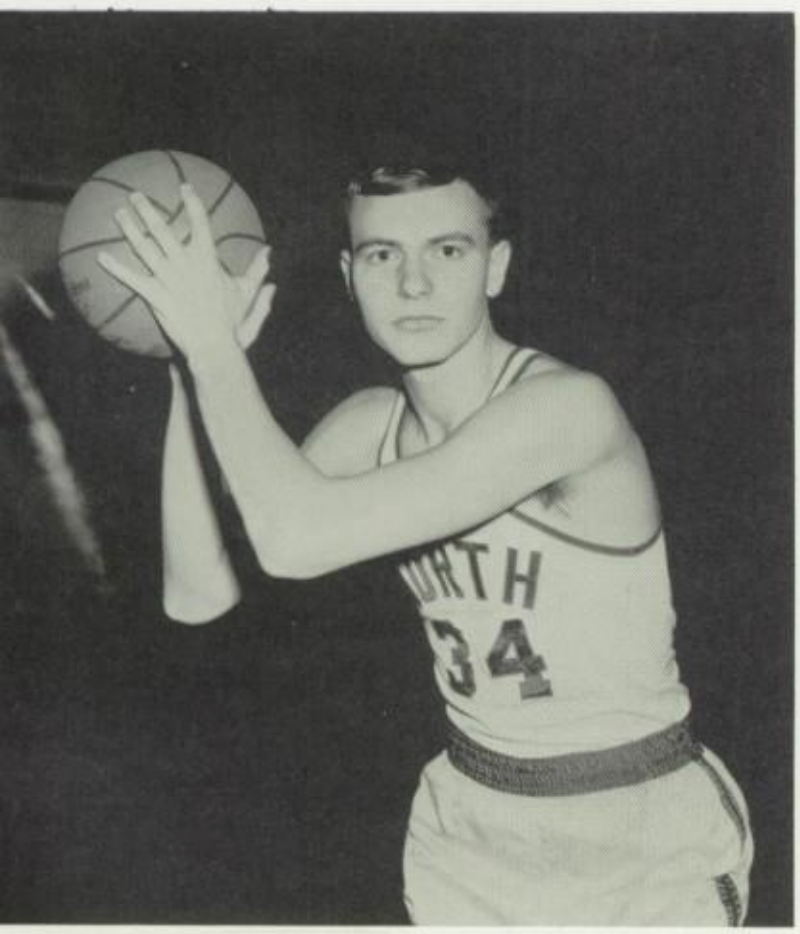
In the closing moments of the game, North lost to Washburn 50-45. Hank Hinrichs hit for 13, while Dave Laulainen got 11. South was North's third victim as our cagers ambushed the Tigers 47-41.

North wound up the season by losing to Edison 87-71 and defeating Vocational 57-35.

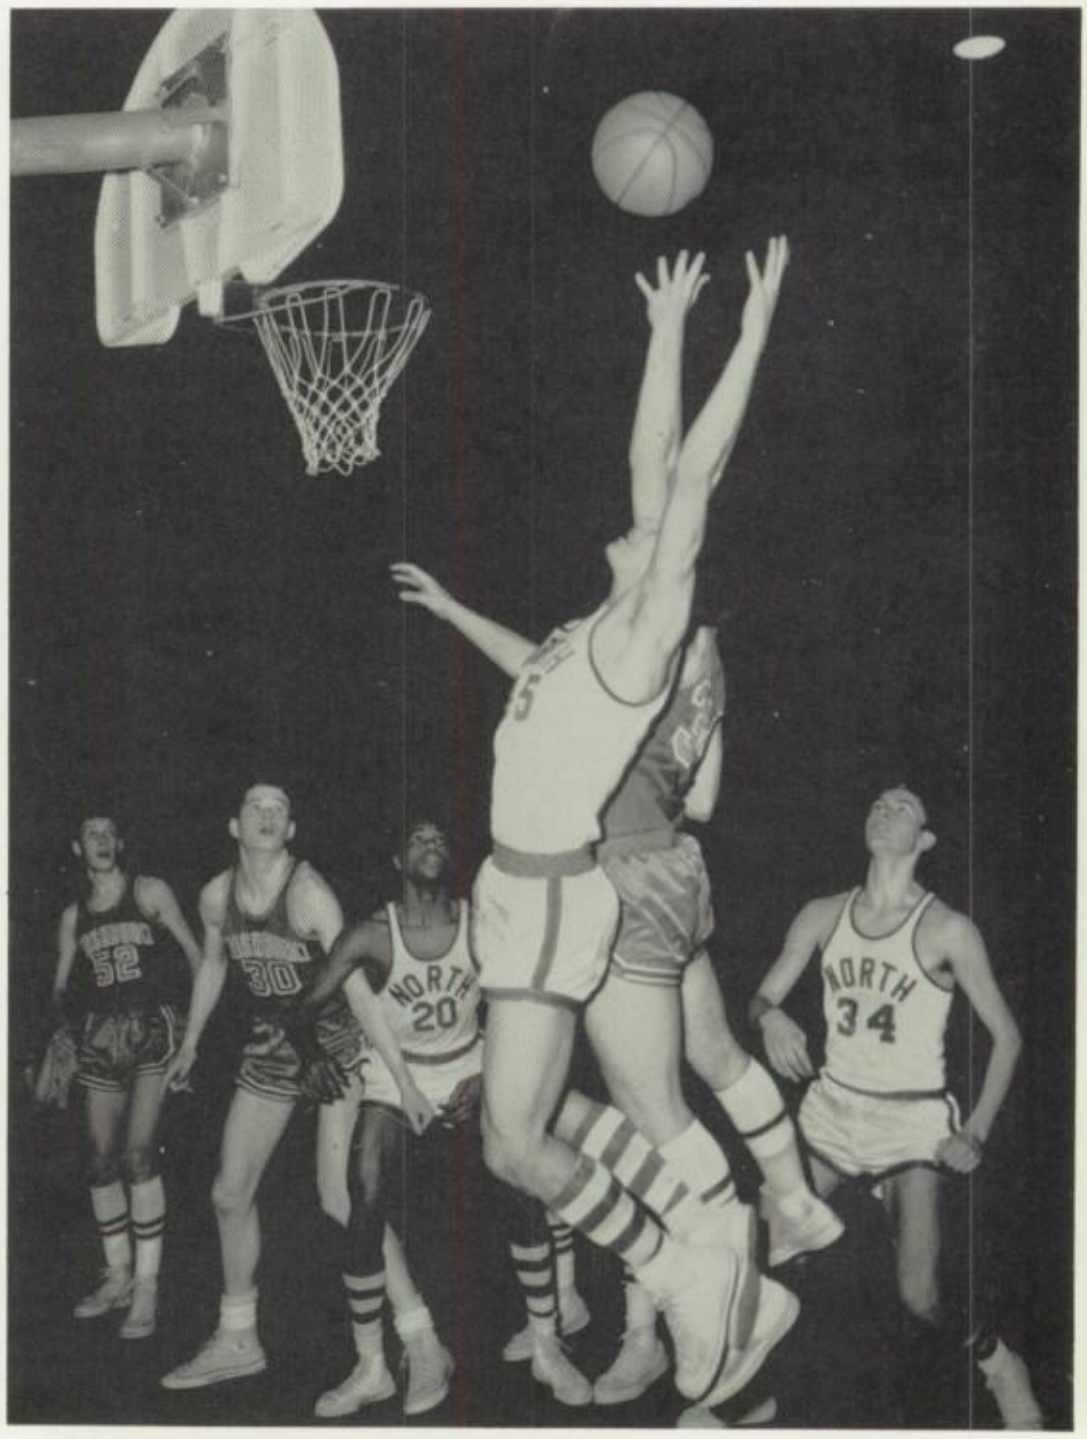
EARL PETTIFORD, 6'0" made limited appearances at forward this year.

BILL MANUEL, 5'10", was the most versatile player on the team, as he played both guard and forward for Coach Sovell.

Who put the gum on the ball?



DAVE LAULAINEN, North's forward and captain, averaged about 10 points per game for the conference schedule. His rebounding skill provided that extra boost for the Polars. Dave was named to the All-City defensive team.



But, Coach, it won't come down.

Sixth Place District 17 Meet

"Swimming has finally caught on at North," said Coach "Hawk" Carlson happily as fifty-six prospective swimming stars turned out for Hell-Week. After several weeks of intensive preliminary training, the team was cut to thirty members.

Led by captains Tom Zoet, Lee Fjeld and Fred Wells, North's swimmers began its best season in three years. Fred Wells won the city championship in the breast stroke. Senior lettermen included Richard Hinkel, Fred Wells, Tom Zoet, Richard Sieloff and Lee Fjeld; the North tankers placed sixth in the city.

Strength, Skill, Stamina Are Judged in Gymnastics

Bulging muscles symbolized North's 1965 gymnastics team. Coach Lewis Burnett trained his Polars to perform with excellence. The team finished second in the city conference behind Marshall with a 6-2 record.

In the class B division, North won the district and region titles. Dave Brousseau was the champ on the horizontal bar. Dennis Halloran and Jim Leech finished second and third respectively in the all-around class. The team also finished second in the all-around division.

Praised by Coach Burnett in class A were Jack Kampa, Nick Frol, Mike Greiner, Andre Boersma, Gene Small and Dan McCorry. Class B stand-outs were Dennis Halloran, Jim Leech, Floyd Jackson, Richard Larson, Jerry Tobler and Dave Brousseau.

North's skiers won their seventh city title in eight years. After losing the city championship last year, they bounced back to a sweeping seven to zero conference standing. This extended the team's undefeated dual meet record to 50-0, over the last eight years.

This year's team started off with one top returning letterman, captain Ron Jacobson, who won this year's city and state championship. In every dual meet, North placed in the top three positions.

Just before the state meet, tragedy struck the ski team. Jim Leader, North's top jumper, was seriously injured during practice after taking a jarring tumble.

Next year's returning team will be weakened by the loss of top slalom skiers by graduation. Coach Kindem said, however, "Prospects for the future are good, especially in cross-country and jumping."

Icemen Have Colorful Season

Mr. Walt Childers, North's new hockey coach, credited the team with the hustle he had hoped for. "Being my first year and not knowing the players slowed the team's progress," commented Childers.

North used three forward lines, the gold, red and blue, and the defense. Co-captain Dan Wagner played defense and Bill Kephart, the other captain, skated on the blue line. Last year's goalie Vince Fish had transferred to St. Cloud which created a replacement problem that was never settled. Two sophomores, Bill Moore and Dennis Steen, alternated in the net.

Steve Range was the team's top scorer; Dan Wagner, Lowell Gilbertson, Bill Kephart and Range were cited by Coach Childers as the top players.

Next year's team will be sparked by returning lettermen Steve Range, Dennis Steen, Robert Heck, Gene Boughton, Bill Moore and Jim Leach.

Matmen Wrestle Grapplers

North's 1964-65 wrestling team finished the season with a 3-6-1 record. The grapplers won their matches against South, Marshall and Edison and tied Henry and Washburn.

Handicapped by the lack of a 103 pound wrestler, North forfeited five points in every match. Coach Strickland said, "The conference was so tight that we couldn't afford to give up five points." He also added, "The team was much better than the record says."

Top wrestlers included the following in the various weight classes listed: Richard Hoeft, 112; David Pierce, 120; Ken Luedtke, 138; Mike Lemanczik, 145; Dean Harms, 145; Greg Knox, 165; Lance Staricha, 175; and Clarence Patterson, heavyweight who won district title.

All athletic competition involving North athletes was under the direction of the Athletic Council. Striving for good sportsmanship and athletic ability, the Council was directed by Mr. Chester Johnson, principal, and Mr. John Jacobi, athletic director. It awarded letters, pins and certificates to those athletes who had fulfilled the athletic requirements.

John J. Jacobi,
Athletic Director

Mr. John J. Jacobi has contributed his services to high school athletics for thirty-nine years. He had coached basketball for North and now holds the position of athletic director. Mr. Jacobi worked with the Athletic Council to determine the eligibility of North's athletes in interscholastic competition.

North Athletes Thank Equipment Managers

North's equipment managers under the direction of Mr. Lawrence Hansen played one of the most important parts in the athletic program at North. They kept themselves busy by sorting, repairing, distributing and cleaning all sports equipment. Theirs was a tedious job seldom recognized by the student body. The equipment managers and Mr. Hansen deserve much credit for the job they did this past year.

Mr. Lawrence Hansen tells equipment manager, Joe Brenny, and one of North's students that "All" out-cleans them all!

Superior Honors Group Maintains 3.7 Average

Jeremy Brochin
Kim Christopher

Students with a 3.7 average are automatically placed in the superior honors group. This high average indicates high intellectual capacity, good study habits and positive attitudes toward school and education.

These traits are about the only ones that the students pictured here have in common. Their interests and abilities are diverse; these range from the arts and sciences to swimming and photography.

GARY PARKER: Concentrate, stars.

CAPT. KELLER: Miss Sullivan, you've taken a wild thing and given us back a child.

"You can see 5,000 years back in the light of words. Everything we think, feel, know and share in words." Annie Sullivan, the dedicated, belligerent teacher, in William Gibson's "The Miracle Worker," pleads with deaf, blind, mute Helen Keller. Her plea to overcome blindness is also extended to the other unseeing people of the world. Helen did not see the world about her, but that world did not use its sight to understand life. The blind love of her parents hindered her sight, while Annie's persistence, sometimes even physical coercion, enabled her to "see" through the use of words.

Under the direction and guidance of Gary Parker, this well-known drama was presented on November 18, 19 and the innovation of a matinee on the 20th.

Annie's battle seemed to be for a simple objective—a word; yet the reward for them both was enormous:

"One word and I can put the world in your hands."

ANNIE: . . . and do you know how I look in them? Splendiloquent, like a racehorse!

HELEN KELLER: (As an adult). And if I write what my soul thinks, then it will be visible and the words will be its body.

Blindness Is Theme for Miraculous Play

ANNIE: DOLL. D-O-L-L!!

Pitcher: SPLASH!!

Council, Committees Organize, Direct

The Senior Council and committees were responsible for making this year's senior activities successful. Meeting frequently, these committees devoted time to planning and carrying out such activities as the prom, the senior day auditorium and picnic, dedication day and commencement.

Faculty advisers, led by Mr. John Schneider, supervised the committees and appointed students to head each of the groups. Through teamwork and coordination of ideas, the work of the Senior Council and committees contributed toward the reception of all the senior events.

Class Song

Tune of "Days of Wine and Roses"
Words by Linda Ingison

The days we've spent at North High
Bring back memories, we'll recall with ease
Of the things we did, while time just rushed on by
And now the time is nigh
When soon we'll meet the world.

At last, the time is coming,
When we'll say good-by, to our school ties,
And be on our way to start our lives anew,
So to those days at North High, good-by.

Being a forward looking group, one deeply concerned with the future, the Class of 1965 has recognized the importance of the mass media, particularly that of television. We realize that the lives of the innocents of this class have been deeply affected by the advertising presented on television. It is necessary that that all-prevading shadow over our lives be analyzed, synthesized and annotated.

Therefore, in the interests of furthering man's understanding of man and reducing that vast wasteland, the Polaris yearbook staff presents its interpretation of the Class of '65's elected HALL OF FAME!

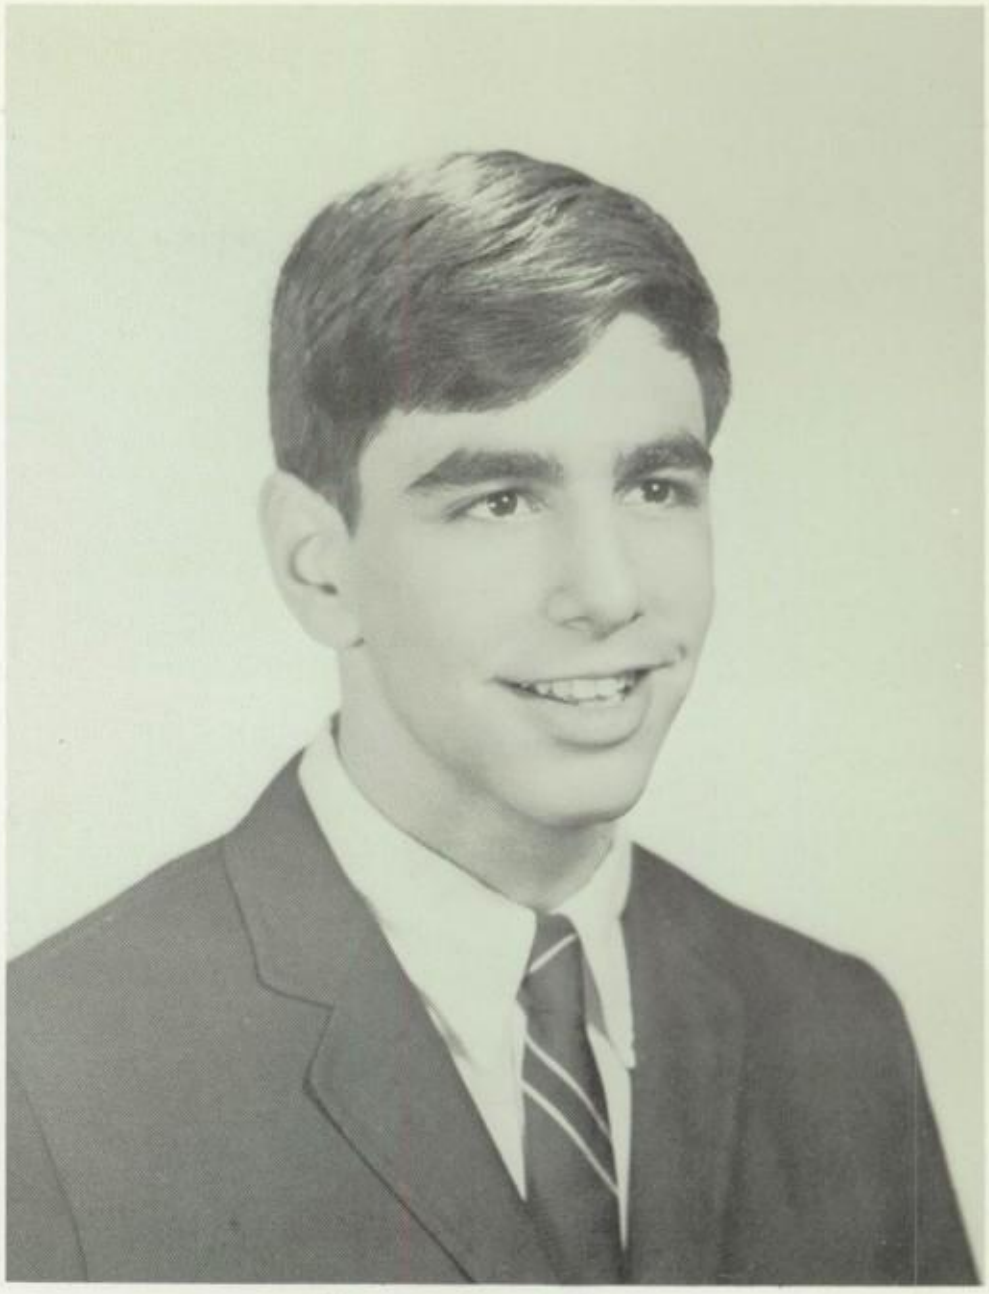
In Memoriam



Bruce Barenbaum

Although individual personalities merge within the framework of a large school, the loss of one person can deeply affect the student body. The loss of Bruce Barenbaum was felt by all who knew him.

Bruce was born October 7, 1947, and was killed in a car accident on December 30, 1964. He lived on the North side with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Barenbaum and younger sister, Ilene. Before coming to North, he attended John Hay Elementary School and Lincoln Junior High.

Bruce took an active part in North High whether cheering a game, talking in the halls or escorting a queen. He was well-liked, had a sense of humor and possessed a quiet manner which gained him respect. 'The Bear', as he was known by his friends, participated in debate, student council, and the class play in addition to attaining high scholastic achievement. In his junior year, he lettered in football. He also played baseball in his sophomore and junior years.

Many facets of North High life were known to Bruce. To each, he contributed his time, his ideas and his enthusiasm.

He will always be missed.

Jim
Well our year is almost over at last, I hope you've had fun because I know I have. I'll see you next year when we're big seniors. Have fun next year and after the summer and be good, work hard and all that kind of junk. I'll see you and Good Luck.
Bye, as Always

The Polar Bear lies empty now for another year; the person who gave it life has graduated and moved on, leaving only a memory of times shared in that old costume. Next year a new personality will fill this outfit and give it life again for a time. Then, he too will move on, a little changed for having worn it, as the Polar Bear, itself, was a little changed for having been worn.

Jim,
It's been real nice seeing you in homeroom and to bad you weren't in my classes and it's been nice seeing you at jets wether you come back or not. Good luck in the coming years.

Jim,
I've always remember
good ole English the fact first week I used to sit in front of you and pass backsail papers. It was really cool having you in my class this and I hope to see you next year!
Always,

Well, now I know
where ya live - sweetness luck? Biology was fun year, English was painful
you eased the pain. I remember all our perfect spelling papers until Ruth got wise and moved us. Oh well - that's life. Be good sweet - See you next year
